Can't Worry Wall St.
75,000 Acres Burn.
Ford Dips Into Rubber.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright. 1928.)

IN PRIZE ring language, the big fight was "a flop." It did not yield the $1,000,000 expected, so Mr. Tex Rickard, impressario of the squared circle, lost about $200,000 of his own money.

He had guaranteed each fighter a certain sum, cruel government took 25 per cent of the gross receipts, or as much of 25 per cent as it could get; what was left isn't enough.

"FROM evil comes good." Decency will rejoice at Mr. Rickard's announcement that he will stop broadcasting from the ringside. People save their money, listen to descriptions of blows and blood over the radio. Thereafter, to enjoy a fight, you must pay your money and SEE blows and blood.

That's good news. Those that delight in blood and like seeing other men take blows that they wouldn't take themselves should herd together.

NOTHING worries Wall Street. Plus signs are scattered over the list this morning. General Motors has gone up nearly 10 points since Mr. Raskob decided not to combine politics and automobiles. Big business does not like to be tied to politics—openly.

"BIG" Steel is up, oils and market leaders generally are up. Money, plentiful, made it hard for lenders to keep it up to 5½ per cent. Looks like the beginning of another bull market in spite of Federal Reserve efforts to discourage speculation.

A GREAT fire raging over farm lands in the Northwest burns 75,000 acres of wheat and pasturage. Homes and ranches are burned with crops, farmers fighting it in vain.

Would it be possible to equip a fleet of airplanes with chemical apparatus for extinguishing fire, to deal with a disaster of this kind?

Aircraft manufacturers and those that manufacture chemical fire extinguishers might answer that question.

HENRY FORD starts work on 6,000,000 acres for rubber growing in Brazil. A good deal of land, it ought to produce a lot of rubber.

Two ships, with equipment, machinery, experts and mechanics, have been sent to get production started.

Ford's friend, Firestone, is making a big rubber experiment in Africa. Ford prefers South America. These two men might easily end the British rubber monopoly.

GEORGE D. SMITH, once New York's most famous dealer in old books, died, and his firm is bankrupt. Smith did not read the beautiful volumes that passed through his hands. He knew them by instinct, could instantly identify their importance, value and rarity.

Those that have done the most reading IN books know the most ABOUT books.

THIS writer, in New York's biggest book store, once asked for Schopenhauer's "Studies in Pessimism," to get the exact reference to that "undersized, narrow-shouldered, wide-hipped" creature, woman, whom Schopenhauer disliked.

Learned gentlemen in the book store could not find the book, were sure they did not have it. "But wait a moment—there's one more chance." They called a colored youth, 18 years old. "Certainly," said he, "you will find it up in the gallery, second shelf." Similarly he could locate any one of thousands of books in that store. Had he read? "No, I don't read any of the books, but I know them all."

VOLTAIRE apologized for the small size of his library, only 6,000 volumes, the margins of pages covered with notes in his fine handwriting. Catherine of Russia bought them all when he died.

Buckle, author of an introduction to "The History of Civilization in England," had 60,000 volumes in his library and read constantly.

If a man could read and know 100 books, properly chosen, he would have an education.

DR. LANGSNER, marvelous hypnotist of Vienna, does and says things to worry the criminal. By hypnotism he caused a young criminal, Verno Booher, to confess after 15 minutes the murder of his mother, sister and two hired men.

DR. LANGSNER says each has a sixth sense that can be made to receive the thought of another. Thought is something like a broadcasting operation.

He hypnotizes the criminal and easily obtains the truth from him because "his crime is always on his mind."

Sought

L. J. HENDERSHOT

Sought in West Elizabeth, his home borough, L. J. Hendershot will be asked to explain why a check passed in Detroit and several in Tarentum have been returned, marked "No Funds." Hendershot recently claimed to have invented "the fuel-less motor."

'Al' Leads Again in Voting

Bridgeville couldn't wait any longer, so a voting machine has been installed in that borough and today the citizens are expressing themselves as regards politics, in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph straw vote on the presidential candidate.

The machine is at the main intersection in the town, and folk are coming in from miles around to see the machine, learn how to cast a ballot mechanically, and add a vote for their favorite in the coming election.

The produce district, Second Ward, had another lively day on the machine at Nineteenth and Pike streets. Smith seems to be the favorite among the people in that busy section of the city, the vote yesterday being 195 for "Al" and 18 for Hoover.

Monday two machines will be taken to nearby communities, one to Braddock and another to McKeesport. Reports from these sections indicate a restless impatience among the voters while waiting for the machines, and they will have a whole week in which to learn about the machine and cast ballots for one or the other of the candidates.

Results recorded by the machines yesterday follow:

FRANCE IS READY TO BOLT

AMSTERDAM, Holland, July 28.—(AP.)—France's Olympic team suddenly withdrew from today's opening parade after a row with the gatekeeper yesterday. The team threatened to quit competition. The jarring note on the otherwise spectacular and impressive inaugural of the Olympics caused a furor.

The Dutch authorities, through general Olympic Secretary Van Rossen, immediately issued a statement saying that the French withdrawal was caused by the weather.

FRENCH OFFICIAL PUNCHED

It was learned, however, that the action was the result of an encounter yesterday in which one of the French Olympic officials was struck by a Dutch gatekeeper who had refused him admittance to the stadium.

After this altercation the Dutch authorities agreed to remove the gatekeeper, but he was still on the job when the French delegation arrived for today's opening ceremonies. Without hesitation, they withdrew and sent word that they considered the situation "offensive."

An official protest of what was considered a "gross insult" has been filed, said Franz Reichel, secretary of the French Olympic committee. He added, however, that it was unlikely that the team would be withdrawn from competition because such a step would be unfair to the athletes. Some of the hotter heads in the French group favored immediate severance of all connection with the games unless apologies are forthcoming.

It was disclosed that Secretary Mericamp, of the French Athletic

Vanderbilt Mansion Robbed

PARIS, July 28.—(INS.)—The home of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, rich American woman, at 10 Rue Leroux, was burglarized during her absence, according to a report made to the police today.

There were six servants sleeping in the Vanderbilt home at the time of the robbery, which took place at night. They told the police that they heard no noise and knew nothing of the theft until they awoke.

It is believed that the burglary was the work of one man, who knew of the absence of Mrs. Vanderbilt. He had entered the house through a coal shute.

The servants refuse to divulge the value of the stolen articles to reporters or to reveal the whereabouts of Mrs. Vanderbilt.

FOUR DIE AS BOAT HITS STEAMER

International News Service.

HOLLAND, Mich., July 28.—Four youths were drowned late last night when a speed yacht in which they were cruising near Gold's Point, crashed into the City of Holland, Chicago excursion liner. Two other youths, unconscious from injuries, were rescued by fishermen sailing near the scene of the crash.

The speed boat was caught in the wheel of the steamer, churned beneath the surface and ground to bits.

The drowned youths are: John Arens, 22, of Holland, Mich.; Paul Landwehr, 18, son of A. H. Landwehr, millionaire president of the Holland Furnace Company, Holland, Mich.; John Nhystrom, 19, cousin of young Landwehr, and Earl Van Lente, 18, also of Holland.

The bodies of the four youths have not been recovered.

Flier Dies Doing Stunt

IMPERIAL, Cal., July 28.—(AP.)—While attempting to show a traffic policeman "how easy it is to nose dive under 500 feet," Carol B. Crossan, Los Angeles stunt aviator, was killed near here last night when his plane crashed. The policeman, Sam Wise, was the only witness.

Two years ago while flying over the beach at Venice, Cal., Crossan in making what he described as a forced landing, killed two children playing in the surf. He was tried twice on manslaughter charges, but the juries disagreed. The charges were dropped last month.

INVENTOR HUNTED IN FRAUD

Lester J. Hendershot, of West Elizabeth, inventor of what he called the "fuelless motor," is being sought by county detectives who claim, on report of Tarentum merchants, that he passed checks in Tarentum yesterday that were returned marked "No Funds."

Detroit police, according to a report from that city, also have been asked to arrest the inventor, the Statler Hotel there claiming that he presented a worthless check for $50.

County Detective J. J. O'Brien shortly before noon today left for West Elizabeth to find Hendershot, after County Detective Edward Weber, of Tarentum, asked Chief George Murrin to apprehend the man.

Following the report that West Elizabeth police would be asked to arrest the inventor, Burgess J. B. Abraham stated that authorities there had not received the request for Hendershot's arrest.

Escaped Convict Caught

International News Service.

INDIANA, Pa., July 28.—After 24 hours of freedom, Weamer Zack, 30, of Heshon, Pa., is behind the bars today blaming hardboiled freight train crews and his lack of geographical knowledge for his recapture. Zack, who escaped from his two guards as he was being taken to the Allegheny County Workhouse, was recaptured less than 10 miles from the place where he made his getaway.

The prisoner leaped from between two guards who, with Sheriff H. E. Borland, of Indiana county, were taking him to the workhouse to serve a two-year sentence for larceny.

Zack told Deputy Coroner Charles Bruh of New Kensington that he hopped a freight train after his escape from the guards. He said that he had been kicked off a freight at Blawnox, had boarded another and been kicked off it. He told the coroner that he had injured his back at Brilliant cutoff, near Aspinwall.

He knew he had been on several other freights, Zack said, and had ridden in several directions, until finally he did not know where he was.

Girl Raises 481 Quarts Berries On 1-20 Acre

RUTH E. KENNEDY, Butler county school girl, raised 481 quarts of strawberries on one-twentieth of an acre. That is four and two-thirds times the average yield of Pennsylvania commercial growers on a tract of equal size. Thomas Denniston, Butler county farmer raised 547 bushels of potatoes on one acre, or four and one-half times the average commercial yield.

Butler county's remarkable agricultural achievements and other interesting developments there are described and illustrated in a page devoted to Butler in tomorrow's issue of the Pittsburgh Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

BUCS TRY FOR TWIN WIN

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

BOSTON, July 28.—The Pirates and Braves will hook up in a doubleheader here this afternoon in the opening clashes of the Corsairs' series here.

The Buccos arrived in town this morning from New York in far from fine fettle. Yesterday they dropped the final game of the series and three out of four, to the Giants by a 4 to 2 score, atrocious play in the field being responsible in a great measure for the defeat.

Remy Kremer, who was kept out of yesterday's game as Fred Fussell was hurling so well, will take up the pitching burden in the first contest this afternoon. In the second game, either Lee Meadows or Ervin Brame will go to the firing line.

The Braves are expected to counter with Bob Smith in the first clash and the clever young southpaw, Ed Brandt in the second.

BUSINESS MAN INDICTED FOR MURDER OF WIFE

MAYS LANDING, N. J., July 28.—The Atlantic county grand jury has indicted John Peters on a charge of murdering his wife Margaret in a rooming house here last Friday. Peters is under arrest in Philadelphia, awaiting extradition. Peters, said to be former head of a Philadelphia paint concern and once worth $300,000, was separated from his wife. They quarreled when they met to talk over the future of their 18-year-old son, according to police.

"Half Wives" deals with the problem of whether or not a girl can have a home, a family, continue her job and be happy.

For the best letters on this problem, so vital to all young men and young women starting out in life, the Sun Telegraph will pay $350 in cash prizes.

To the person writing the best letter on the problem which "Half Wives" depicts, the Sun-Telegraph will pay $100. Other prizes will be: Second best letter, $50; third best, $35; fourth best, $35; fifth best, $20; for the next best five, $10 each; for the next best 10 letters, $5 each, and for the next best 20 letters, $1 each.

A generous installment of "Half Wives" will be published every week-day in the Sun-Telegraph. Aside from the problem involved, it is filled with romance and adventure. Critics call it one of Winifred Van Duzer's greatest novels.

HOOVER SEEKS REST AFTER HOMECOMING

University of Pittsburgh has 71 students from 21 colleges and universities enrolled in its summer teaching course. Josephine Wible, Ohio Wesleyan, and Ruth Hoffman, Carnegie Institute of Technology, are registered.

WORK

And whether one is or one just intends to be a school teacher does not grant one the right to avoid that bane of the scholar's existence: nightwork. Here, you have a huddle, adopted from the practice of our first class football players. Someone should know the assignment!

The classes are held every morning in Schenley High School Building, Bigelow boulevard, and there are 25 critic-teachers under the direction of Dr. W. W. D. Sones, director of practice teaching, to lead the students. These are Virginia Phillips, Mildred Todhunter and Martha Phillips.

NATIONAL

The classes take on a national aspect, for there are students from all sections of the country. Marian Whieldon and Eleanor Arbuthnot are just two of them. The course is a part of the usual summer session at the University.

HOOVER LEAVES FOR FIVE-DAY REST

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., July 28.—(AP.)—His homecoming celebration in San Francisco, Palo Alto and intermediate towns over, Herbert Hoover today turned his face to the northwards for a motor and railway journey that is to take him into Oregon and last for five days.

The Republican presidential candidate leaves behind him the cares of the campaign and seeks rest and recreation in the out of the way places where he will fish for trout, and visit again some of the picturesque spots in the northern part of his home state. On the journey, set to start almost with the dawn, his son, Allan, his secretary, George Akerson, Assistant United States Attorney William J. Donovan, and 13 of the newspaper correspondents and the photographers who accompanied him across the continent from Washington were prepared to go along. In addition, there were some officials of Stanford University and a few personal friends.

At the nominee's request, there will be no formal welcoming ceremonies or demonstrations in any of the towns through which he is to pass, both in this state and Oregon, but crowds were expected to assemble at the various points to get a look at the man called to the leadership of the Republican party.

This trip was expected to benefit the Commerce Secretary, as he has been through a hard grind in his campaign for the nomination and in his work since in getting his organization under way and winding up his work in the Commerce Department, which is now concluded and which will be turned over to his successor, to be appointed shortly by President Coolidge.

THROAT CUT IN AUTO COLLISION, CHILD DIES

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 28.—Grace Barcele, 7, whose throat was gashed when she was thrown against the broken windshield of an automobile in a collision, is dead here.

Al, Ritchie Week-End Together

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.) — Thoughts of the White House took second place to a desire for rest and recreation in the mind of Gov. Smith today.

Keyed up by words of encouragement from the governor of another state—Ritchie of Maryland—Smith dismissed politics from his mind for a week-end vacation at Hampton Bays, on the south shore of Long Island.

The Governor of New York met the Governor of Maryland here last night. They had a chat on the political outlook and had dinner together.

Although nothing was given out to the public regarding their conversation, no one doubted that they were in complete harmony as to the lines on which the Democratic presidential campaign should be conducted. Smith sought the advice of his friend from Maryland, not only as to strategy, but as to the line of his campaign argument, and he got it, particularly on prohibition.

FRENCH TEAM THREATENS BOLT

Association, was the person who was punched by the Dutch gate tender.

The question was raised as to whether the French athletes, who missed taking the Olympic oath by not attending the inaugural, would be qualified to compete in the games. The French and Dutch officials went into a huddle on this point in an effort to smooth out the entire situation.

BARRED FROM TRACK

M. Reichel prepared a formal statement in the stadium reciting the situation from the French viewpoint. He said that the French Ambassador would be consulted before a decision was reached as to whether France would compete in the games. Explaining that the Dutch had given permission for the French to practice on the Olympic track on Friday, he said:

"When our athletes, accompanied by M. Mericamp, came to the gate they were refused admission, although the Germans had previously been allowed to enter. Our representative naturally protested and explained the permission given by the Dutch authorities. The gate keeper was obdurate. He finally threatened M. Mericamp and then hit him.

"Our protest and our demand that the gate keeper be removed apparently went unheeded. The argument was renewed with the same man when the French arrived at the stadium today so there was nothing left to do but withdraw.

Despite the last-minute withdrawal of France, the parade of the nations athletic arrays immediately following the opening gestures aroused spontantaneous enthusiasm in the stands, each contingent stopping to salute before the Prince Consort's royal box.

The Greeks, having the honor of leading the procession, were followed by the nattily attired Argentines. Chile's group, some 30 strong, varied the salutes by stopping and giving a ringing cheer in front of the official box.

N. S. DELEGATION LARGE

The Germans had an imposing delegation. They were dressed entirely in white and dark blue.

After the invocation and a cantata by a chorus of 1,200 persons, the chairman of the Dutch Olympic committee, Baron Schimmelpenninck Van Der Oye, burgomaster of Doorn, made an address of welcome, officially requesting the Prince Consort to declare the games open in the name of Queen Wilhelmina. This formal ceremony followed.

It required 30 minutes for the international procession to pass. Meanwhile, airplanes droned steadily overhead, wheeling in circles over the field and the stadium.

The Dutch delegation was the biggest, with the American second and the German third.

The United States athletes remained aboard their ship, the President Roosevelt, until the last minute before the opening ceremonies began. They were disappointed over the gray, wet weather of the morning, but sheered up when the skies cleared somewhat and the sun began its intermittent appearance.

Some of the American women athletes, not yet accustomed to the changed living conditions, had been suffering slight ailments, but all had recovered and were pronounced fit.

Florence MacDonald, of Boston, had injured her ankle while on a shopping trip.

YANKS CONFIDENT

Gen. MacArthur, head of the American Olympic committee, declared that the United States squad is ready to give a good account of itself.

"The opening of the games finds the American team at the peak of its form," said Gen. MacArthur. "Without exception, our athletes have come through the long grind of training in superb condition. They are prepared both physically and mentally for the great test.

"The hazards of sport are too great to attempt to predict the results, but beyond question we have assembled the greatest team in our athletic history. Americans who are following the events can rest serene and assured."

CHEMIST FOUND KILLED BY "UNKNOWN FACTOR"

A coroner's inquest today proclaimed that J. Murray Riggs, chemist of the United States Bureau of Mines, died an accidental death July 2 when an explosion at experimental station No. 3, Bruceton, blew out the walls of the building and crushed him.

But the story didn't stop there. For in a very scientific booklet, submitted to Coroner W. J. McGregor by other chemists at the Bureau of Mines, the romantic story of Riggs' research for a safety device to substitute for dynamite in coal mine blasting, was told to explain the tragedy. It said, this booklet did, that Riggs was killed by "the unknown factor."

Riggs was working on a test tube of metal, into which, five times before, he had filled quantities of gases and other matter. He had hoped to perfect a safety tube that when placed in a wall of coal, and heated by an electric current, would release the charge of gas and blast the coal. It would obviate the use of the more dangerous dynamite sticks now in use.

Five times he had mixed, in an old-fashioned dairyman's churn, the heating chemicals which he had hoped would release the gas. The sixth time "the unknown factor" entered the experiment and the explosion and death of the investigator followed.

The experiment will continue, the chemists added, in the hope of discovering "the unknown factor," and perfecting the metal tube. But the old churn, they said, will be discarded.

SMOOT FAVORS TARIFF CHANGE FOR FARMERS

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(AP.)—Republican approval of a revision of the tariff act by the Seventy-first Congress seemed assured today with an announcement by Senator Smoot, of Utah, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, in favor of such a move.

Senator Smoot was chairman of the platform committee at the Republican National Convention and speaks with some authority for his party, but he took pains to say that he has not discussed the question with Herbert Hoover, the party's presidential nominee.

Smoot declared principally for revision of the tariff rates on farm products. He wants increased duties, believing the agricultural import problem has grown beyond the present tariff act, even with its flexible provision permitting the President to make 50 per cent increases in duties.

"That will go far to solve the farm problem," Smoot declared. "Last year we imported more than $2,500,000,000 in foodstuffs. There is your farm problem."

125 PRIESTS ATTEND FATHER FRIES' FUNERAL

CHARLEROI, Pa., July 28.—One hundred and twenty-five priests from Pennsylvania parishes and the Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of the Pittsburgh Diocese, were present at the funeral of the Rev. William D. Fries, rector of St. Jerome's Roman Catholic Church, who died Tuesday. The Rev. Charles Fries, of St. Bernard's College, Birmingham, Ala., a brother, was celebrant of the mass. The funeral cortege from Charleroi to St. Mary's Cemetery, Pittsburgh, was one of the largest ever seen in Charleroi, more than 125 cars forming the line.

HUNDREDS IN TERROR FLEE VOLCANO

MANILA, July 28.—(AP.)—Western Albay province was held in a grip of terror today as the Volcano Mayon began a new rampage, shooting tons of lava hundreds of feet into the air, while the entire countryside shook and rumbled in a series of earthquakes.

Swayed by superstition and fear of the volcano, many of the natives fled at the beginning of the phenomenon. A few hours later, as the flow of lava showed no signs of abating and the earthquakes and rumblings continued, the few persons remaining in the town of Libog, near the foot of the mountain, fled for safety.

This was said to be the worst eruption of Mayon since 1900, when the crater was particularly violent. A new crater was opened about 500 feet from the summit of the mountain this morning. When the first discharge of molten lava struck the earth at the base of the mountain it splashed about half a kilometer.

Huge quantities of the melted rock started oozing toward Libog. A railroad and a main highway in the path of the lava were threatened.

This is the second serious eruption of Mayon in the last two weeks. When the previous phenomenon was at its height, Gov.-Gen. Stimson made a trip to Albay province to view the situation and reassure the populace. At that time seismologists declared the worst of the current cycle of eruption was over.

Dogs Trail Escaped Killers

HOUSTON, Tex., July 28.—(AP.)—Though pursued throughout the night by 35 bloodhounds and 100 armed men, the five convicts who shot their way out of the Imperial State Prison Farm near Richmond late yesterday, were still at large this morning in the swamps and canebrakes along the Brazos River, 20 miles south of here.

One guard was killed and two deputies injured, one perhaps fatally, by the eight men who fled. Three of the convicts were captured shortly afterward, two being wounded in a gun battle with deputies.

A "shoot to kill," order if the convicts showed signs of fight was given by R. J. Flanagan, manager of the three prison farms in this section. Some of the men were known to be armed with guns taken from Henry Ward, guard, who was killed, and Jim Jeeter, guard, who was disarmed and later slightly wounded.

SATURDAY, JULY 28, 1928

PAYROLL STOLEN IN HOLDUP

CHICAGO, July 28.—(AP.)—Three bandits, armed with a sawed off shotgun, last night entered the Herald and Examiner newspaper offices, held at bay a policeman, a paymaster and two paymaster's clerks, and escaped with between $6,000 and $7,000.

The money was to be paid to pressroom employes and consisted of currency of small denominations.

The robbery took place as Paymaster A. S. Vongolin entered his guarded office. Inside were Policeman George Larson and Clerks David F. O'Shea and Martin Kelly.

Close on Vongolin's heels, as he turned to shut the door, came the three bandits. One of them tore open a cardboard box and produced a short shotgun.

He flourished it and ordered the three newspaper employes to lie down. The other two snatched the money satchel from Vongolin and fled while the first covered their escape with the gun. No shots were fired.

Passersby on the street saw two men jump into an open touring car and speed away. No one could be found who saw the other flee. The Herald and Examiner Building stands at the west side of the Loop on Madison street, even at night one of the busiest streets in the city.

The method employed by the robbers was said by police to be similar to that used June 6 in the holdup of the Detroit News.

Flier Dies In Plane Plunge

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 28—(AP.)—Reserve Ensign Forrest Lockwood McGurk, of Portsmouth, O., was drowned and two flight companions suffered slight injuries when a four-passenger amphibian naval plane he was piloting went into a tail spin over Narragansett Bay yesterday.

Lieut. Thomas J. Kirkland and Aviation Mechanic Blythe M. Sloane, passengers, escaped with slight bruises and were rescued by a naval tug.

When the plane hit the water the motor was driven back pinning the pilot into the cockpit. Lieut. Kirkland and Sloane, after extricating themselves, tried to release McGurk, but without success.

YOUNGSTOWN, July 28.—Clifford Shirley, pilot of a seaplane, and his passenger, Miss Clementine Blythe, 21, of Salem, narrowly escaped death yesterday when their ship was caught in a squall in Lake Milton, and overturned. Both were hurled into the water, but managed to cling to the craft until rescued.

UNFROCKED METHODIST BISHOP QUITS CHURCH

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, July 28.—(AP.)—The Rev. Anton Bast, recently unfrocked as Methodist Episcopal bishop of Scandinavia, has resigned from the ministry and the church, it became known today. His action put an end to proceedings under way in the Methodist Episcopal conference seeking his expulsion.

GRAIN BELT FLAMES HALTED

WALLA WALLA, Wash., July 28.—(AP.)—A blackened waste of wheat pasture land, comprising some 80,000 acres, today marked the ravages of a fire that romped across the Eureka Flats grain country between Walla Walla and the Touchet River and was halted only after hundreds of men had fought the flames for hours.

A change in the direction of the wind brought success to the fire fighters, but only after a score of farmers had seen their season's crops destroyed, and in some cases their farm buildings also. The burned area, 19 square miles, was winter grazing pasture land, and about 3,500 acres of wheat land in crops.

Farmers placed their grain loss at 50,000 bushels. Warehouses at Welland, Adkins and Eureka Junction, all filled with harvested wheat, were unharmed. The flames completely circled Adkins, where backfiring operations were successful.

About 20 farmers were affected by the losses, all of them reported to have been well insured.

The flames, spreading like a funnel from their start near Walla Walla, separated into two tongues at the Hatch ranch, one section being stopped within a mile and a half of the Snake River, seven miles west of Eureka.

The other was halted near the Touchet River, six miles southeast of Eureka, when plowing of a fireguard and backfiring were made successful by a change in the wind. This prevented spread of flames beyond Eureka, where heavier crops were growing for a distance of 40 miles.

The fire was believed to have been started near Wallula by sparks from a locomotive or by a carelessly thrown cigaret. Hundreds of ranchers and townspeople joined the army that fought the flames through the night.

Four Popular Leading Men Being Considered to Play In Next Corinne Griffith Film

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, JULY 25.

KENNETH HARLAN, Ben Lyon, Eddie Lowe and Ian Keith have been weighed in the movie balance in the search for a stalwart hero to play opposite Corinne Griffith in "Outcast," which is the title of the picture she will make now that "The Divine Lady" is safe in the cutting room.

Of the four, Ian Keith looks like the dark steed who will get the floral horseshoe hung around his neck, and his name in a contract for the role. Edmund Lowe, I'm afraid, is too busy on the old home lot at Fox's to be loaned or borrowed. Ben Lyon, quit a Brummel with a tiny new mustache ornamenting his tanned face, insists that he is Broadway-bound. According to the star of "Hell's Angels," he will hike from Hollywood and return to the theater. Moreover, his pal, "Skeets" Gallagher, says it's absolutely true. "Skeets," himself, is going along to see his name in lights on the main stem again.

This leaves only Ken Harlan as Keith's opposition. And when it comes to the showdown, I think Director William Seiter will find Ken has other fish to fry. Ken is getting offers aplenty these days, mostly for talkies. But he may do a stage play first just to limber up the old voice which thrilled many a matinee Miss before it was lost in the silent drama.

An odd situation arises regarding John Barrymore, United Artists and Warner Brothers. John must do a United Artists film before returning to the Warner fold. But it is not nominated in the bond that the U. A. picture is to be a "squeakie." Sound films were scarce thought of when the contract was made. The Warner contract, however, carries Barrymore's signature for talkers. Nevertheless, United Artists will make their Barrymore film with sound and dialog. But while others speak, the star must be silent. In a talking picture there will be no word spoken by the one actor supremely qualified to read lines.

Everyone is saying "uncle" to Richard Dix these days, for Rich's sister, Mrs. John Compton, is the mother of a son. Of course, its name is John Richard.

Young Mr. Howard Hughes, who is in Hollywood to learn the picture business, is endeavoring to sponsor a new comedy team. Just when other concerns won't touch comedy teams with extremely long poles, Caddo Productions are seeking a yarn which may be novelized for Louis Wolheim and Raymond Griffith. If it is found, Lewis Milestone, whom everyone calls "Milly," will do the directing.

Director Henry King is still "interested" in "The Darling of the Gods," despite the fact that at the present time it is scheduled to be Dolores Del Rio's next film, directed by Edwin Carewe. King had planned to make the picture for United Artists with, first, Norma Talmadge and then Lillian Gish as the girl and Ivan Lebedeff as the Samurai prince. But the plans of Joseph Schenck and United Artists changed, and the vehicle was handed to Dolores, who is ideal for the role. However, if the various people having claims on the story can come to an agreement, King may yet purchase the property for his own. Beside United Artists, David Belasco and Morris Gest own "a piece of the show."

The dynamic Alice White will catapult herself from "Show Girl" straight into the action of "Ritzy Rosie," which is the alliterative title of the film to follow the screen version of J. P. McEvoy's chorus girl yarn. It will be directed by Mervyn Leroy. And it is being whispered about that Jack Mulhall may be cast for the part of the chap who wins the gal. With "Rosie" safely ritzed, Leroy, youngest of all directors, will do the megaphone work on "Children of the Ritz," starring Dorothy Mackaill.

The big three of "Scarlet Seas" will be Dick Barthelmess, Betty Compson and Loretta Young. Loretta has just been selected as the "juvenile love interest."

Lois Wilson found it a bit too stiff to work on both stage and screen at the same time, so this will be the last week that Lois will appear in the local theater. Her resignation, at least temporarily, from the stage breaks up the Edward Everett Horton-Lois Wilson team which helped a lot to give pictures the first serious competition the stage has offered in these parts for five years. Lois goes to Warners' lot to make a "talkie" with Monte Blue.

Barry Norton, the "mamma's boy" of "What Price Glory" and the angel-faced kid of the "Legion of the Condemned," has been rewarded for his excellent work by the biggest role of his career. It is the part of the son in Emil Jannings' next one, "The Sins of the Fathers," in which Ruth Chatterton, now recovered from her bad sunburn, will play the feminine lead.

PLANTATION SINGERS BOOKED FOR PINES

Next week at the Pines, Perrysville road, the feature attraction will be the Plantation Singers, of radio fame. The Wash-Jeff Nine will assist them in their programs and also will furnish the dance music nightly.

FUN, THRILLS IN BILLS

Harry Bannister and Marguerite Merrill, the new leading woman of the Nixon Players, will have the two leading roles in "Polly With a Past," a comedy which the Nixon Players will present at the Nixon next week.

Beginning Monday, the George Sharp Players in the Pitt will present "Nightstick," a thrilling melodrama of police life. Bradley Page and Olive Meehan will play the leading roles. Matinees will be Thursday and Saturday.

"The Bellamy Trial," adapted from Frances Noyes Hart's novel of the same name, will be the screen feature in the Penn next week. Leatrice Joy, Polly Moran, Betty Bronson and other popular screen players are featured in the cast. "Ocean Blues," another R. H. Burnside revue, will be the stage attraction.

"Lights of New York," which is to be presented at the Stanley next week, is the first of the all-talking motion pictures, all of the action is laid on Broadway or in the "Roaring Forties." On the stage there will be a revue, "In Jail."

Mary Astor plays what she describes as an extremely modern girl but utterly "unflapperish" person in "Sailors' Wives," coming to the Grand next week. Browning's Entertainers will be on the stage.

The Harris and Sheridan Square will present bills of popular priced vaudeville and motion pictures next week, the screen feature in each theater for the first three days to be Rod LaRocque in "Hold 'Em, Yale!"

KENNYWOOD BOOKS HIGH TRAPEZE ACT

The Superior Steel Company is at Kennywood Park today for its annual outing. Employes of the Equitable Gas Company are also at the park holding their picnic. Tomorrow Izzy Cervonne and his band will be at the park for four concerts, two in the afternoon and two in the evening, and next week brings the Flying Melzoras, a trapeze act, and Poodles and Dotty providing comedy.

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Record Period of International Sports. Hafey Held Harder Hitter Than Bottomley—Pirates Enter Nine-Game Stretch of Easier Going—Dates of Various Olympic Branches.

SPORT fans certainly have plenty of international competition to occupy their attention these days.

Rene Lacoste

The heavyweight championship fistic meeting of Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney on Thursday night was only one chapter in the serial.

Yesterday the challenge round between the United States and France for the Davis Cup, emblematic of the world lawn tennis team championship, got under way, continuing until tomorrow.

Today the Olympic games proper start in Amsterdam, and, besides, the Canadian open championship golf tournament, now in progress, is given an international flavor by the fact that Walter Hagen and Macdonald Smith are participants as representatives of the United States.

IT DOESN'T often happen that so much international sport is crowded into a few days, particularly with the United States represented in every event.

And this country has been represented so well, too, that victory or promised victory is the pleasing result.

Tunney beat Heeney in one-sided fashion; Bill Tilden downed his nemesis, Rene Lacoste, in the first round of Davis Cup singles, though Henri Cochet evened up against Johnny Hennessy, and Hagan or Smith bids fair to retain the Canadian championship, which America has held since 1919.

And right ahead looms the prospect that Uncle Sam's athletes will continue their run of triumphs in the track and field portion of the Olympic games, a string that extends back unbroken to the first Olympic revival at Athens in 1896.

TILDEN'S victory over Lacoste did not, of course, assure victory for the United States in the fight for the famous cup, but it caused a lot of enthusiasm among American net fans, regardless of what might develop later in the challenge round which ends tomorrow.

For one thing, Tilden's triumph served to bear out the general belief in this country that without Big Bill America would have no chance in Davis Cup competition, and for another thing it was a source of personal satisfaction to every one that Tilden was able to rise to the heights in the face of his political enemies in the U. S. L. T. A., defeating the opponent who had previously beaten him more than once, and who had taken the singles championship of the United States to France.

THOUGH Jim Bottomley has 22 homers to his credit and is right at the heels of Hack Wilson for the National League leadership in four-base drives, Brooklyn players go on record with the assertion that Chick Hafey, also of the Cards, hits a ball harder than his teammate. "Hafey's the cannonball hitter on that club." Managed Robinson of the Dodgers is quoted. Bottomley's a great slugger, but Hafey hits as hard to left field as any batter I ever saw.

Chick Hafey

ONE player to bear out Robinson was Pitcher Rube Ehrhardt. "Hafey hits a ball harder than Bottomley," he said. "Bottomley is a great slugger with a great slugging style. He pulls a ball to right field with a combination of strength, wrist snap and perfect timeing.

"But Hafey simply overpowers a pitched ball. It seems to me that Chick hits a stiff-arm fashion, and gets the entire strength of his body behind his swing."

RUBE BRESSLER, who knows a thing or two himself about hitting, contributed this opinion to the discussion: "If Hafey were a left-hand hitter, he'd be the Babe Ruth of the National League. There's no ball player anywhere who can hit 'clotheslines' into the left-field bleachers at St. Louis as Hafey can.

"Chick hits plenty of home runs, and to the most difficult fields on the circuit. Yet he isn't among the leaders in home runs. It all shows how playing conditions at most parks favor the left-hand hitter."

PITTSBURGH'S third defeat in the series of four games at New York put the Pirates back at the .500 mark, and dropped them to a game and a half below the Dodgers and fifth place. They are now on the short end of the count for the Eastern trip to date, having lost four games against only three won, but at that they have won 14 of their last 20 contests. Not a bad showing on the whole, as it spells .700 ball from the time they showed their first signs of bracing up.

Fred Brickell

WITH five games to play in Boston, starting with a double-header today, and then four in Philadelphia, the Bushmen are likely to find the going much easier than in Brooklyn and New York and ought to regain all ground they lost in Gotham.

The fine start made by Fred Brickell, who rapped out two doubles and a single while holding down the post of the disabled Pete Scott, is one encouraging development. It offers ground for the hope that the place will be filled satisfactorily, at least until Barnhart is ready to play again or Comorosky is recalled.

ONLY the weight-lifting events are on the schedule for today at the opening of the Olympic games in Amsterdam. They will continue through tomorrow. The big feature, the track and field events, will open tomorrow and last until August 4, with an extra day for them on August 6. The dates for the remainder of the competition follow: Fencing, July 29 to August 11; wrestling, July 30 to August 5; modern pentathlon, from July 31 to August 4; yachting, from August 2 to 9; cycling, from August 3 to 5; swimming, from August 4 to 11; rowing, from August 6 to 10; boxing, from August 7 to 11; gymnastics, from August 8 to 10; equestrian competition, from August 9 to 11.

DUAL BILL ON CARD; KREMER TO START

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

BOSTON, July 28.—There was plenty of diamond activity ahead for the Pirates when they landed at Boston today. Owing to a postponement of the first trip of the season to Boston the Buccos and Braves this afternoon will stage a bargain bill.

The Braves have been hitting the skids, but they were able to take two out of three from the Cubs and they may be a little tougher in the impending fights in view of their success against the Bears.

Manager Bush is in a fairly good position as regards pitchers. He announced this morning that Kremer positively would work in the first game, and furthermore, declared that either Meadows or Brame would be seen in action in the closing contest.

Inasmuch as they tasted defeat three times in the four jousts with the Giants, the Pirates were not in a jovial mood as they departed from the famous Isle of Manhattan last night. The setback sustained by the Freebooters yesterday was especially painful when it is considered that Fred Fussell pitched runless baseball.

WHAT SHOULD HAVE BEEN

The Giants defeated the Pirates 4-2, but there was a taint to every tally made by the home team. Travis Jackson's pop fly homer was the first run made by the Giants and the other three tallies were the results of three misplays made by the Pittsburgh supporting cast.

BRICKELL STARS

The Buccos were first to score, the bat of Fred Brickell being a potent force in the two tallies. Fred, with three hits, doubled to score Grantham in the second, and he drove Traynor from first to third with the second run in the sixth. Wright's sacrifice fly completed the run.

Brickell, subbing for the injured Pete Scott, was the star batter of the day, without doubt, yet Fred could not come through in his fourth attempt; he was up with runners on second and third and one out, two runs being needed to force a deadlock.

Fred Fitzsimmons worked a clever game against the Buccos, but he was not one whit better than Fussell—in fact the Pirate lefthander appeared to be the more impressive of the two in the pitching duel.

The disappointing showing of the Buccos at the Polo Grounds caused the Pirates to leave New York with a string of defeats as long as their victories in the summer's percentage column. The Freebooters bested the Dodgers by taking two out of three, but the edge held by the Giants at the end of the last series made the Pirate string read three triumphs and four setbacks in the seven games played.

TURNESA, COMPSTON BREAK COURSE MARKS

TORONTO, Ont., July 28.—(AP.)—The course record was broken twice in an hour yesterday by Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., and Archie Compston, long-driving British pro, but Walter Hagen, British open champion, clung to his lead in the Canadian open golf championship as the half-way mark was reached.

Hagen, who tied with MacDonald Smith of Great Neck, L. I., at the end of the first 18 holes turned in a brilliant 70 in the second 18 and held a one-stroke lead over the field on the eve of the final 36 holes today.

GILPIN-LANE MEET

PHILADELPHIA, July 28.—(AP.)—Samuel Gilpin of Merion, defending champion, and Harold Lane of the home club, will meet today in the final round of the Pennsylvania state clay court tennis tournament at the Narberth Tennis Club. Gilpin entered the final by defeating Harold Jolborn of Gynwyd, 6-1, 6-3.

HEROES OF YEAR'S GREATEST COMEBACKS

RETURNS TO HEIGHTS

The sports season of 1928 has witnessed two of the greatest "comebacks" in history—one by Big Bill Tilden in tennis and the other by Walter Hagen in golf. In the above picture is shown Tilden, the tennis wizard who yesterday scored a sensational five-set victory over Rene LaCoste, the French ace who had toppled Bill from his throne. Tilden's triumph, in the opening match of the France-U. S. Davis Cup challenge round, marked the snapping of a string of decisions that Rene had gained over Bill in the 1927 Davis Cup play, in the 1927 U. S. singles championships and in the 1928 Wimbledon championships.

STILL HARD TO BEAT

The comeback that most closely rivals that of Tilden was achieved by Walter Hagen this summer in golf. After devoting practically all of his time to motion picture work in the spring, Hagen sailed for England to engage Archie Compston, Britain's best, in a 72-hole match for the unofficial match play championship of the world. In this contest, at Moor Park, Eng., Hagen suffered the worst defeat of his long and colorful career, bowing in defeat by 18 up and 17 to play. At this time many were of the opinion that Hagen was "through," but Sir Walter came back sensationally to annex the British open title the next week, and climaxed his comeback effort this past week by defeating Compston, 6 and 5, in a 72-hole return match.

Feature Net Duels On Card Today

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

TWO battles of outstanding import grace this afternoon's Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League bill. The first of these, involving the runner-up position and possibly the leadership of Section One, will bring together the second place P. A. A. array and the third notch Westinghouse outfit on the Winged Head courts, Bigelow boulevard at Ruskin. The other signal engagement tosses the powerful South Hills aggregation into the arena with Mount Lebanon on the South Hills lot. The Hillsmen are at present cutting out a terrific pace in the Section Two milling, but an overwhelming victory for Mount Lebanon today would land the Parshley squad at the head of the procession.

Besides the P. A. A.-Westinghouse tilt, other Section One fracases will find Don Mattern's University club host entertained by the rejuvenated and rehabilitated Edgewood crew and will discover Howard Moore's College avenue adherents at Beaver Falls for a crack at College Hill on the Geneva rectangles. Unless all signs fail, Edgewood is due for a sudden and spectacular rise from the cellar.

While South Hills and Mount Lebanon are tangling in combat desperate, their Section conferees will also be busy enough for practical purposes, West Park being

CUP LINEUP CHANGED; RAIN DELAYS PLAY

AUTEUIL, France, July 28.—(AP.)—Announcement was made today that William T. Tilden and Francis T. Hunter would meet Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra in today's doubles of the Davis Cup competition instead of the teams announced last night.

The lineup as announced last night would have brought George Lott and John Hennessey, youthful middlewestern stars, against Borotra and Jacques Brugnon.

Realizing that today's double match would be a key match in the Davis Cup series, both the American and French officials decided in a last minute switch to play their trump cards, being even willing to take the risk of having Tilden and Cochet forego the day's rest which had been decided upon last night.

Rain, which has been absent from Paris for seven weeks, picked today to visit the city with great gusto. At 3 o'clock, the hour scheduled for the doubles match to start, rain began to pour down, but owing to the extreme dryness of the courts from the continued drought, hope was still entertained that the doubles might be disputed before the day was over.

U. S. STARS DOMINATE CANADIAN NET FINALS

TORONTO, Ont., July 28.—(AP.)—Three of Canada's tennis championships are sure to go to American players this year while a fourth may go across the border.

The final of the men's singles championship today will be a battle between two of America's Davis Cup reserves, John Van Ryn of Princeton and Wilmer Allison of the University of Texas. Van Ryn eliminated the last surviving Canadian player, Dr. Jack Wright of Montreal, the defending champion, in the semi-final, 6-3, 7-5, 0-6, 6-1, while Allison downed John Doeg of Santa Monica, Cal., 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4.

The final of the women's singles will be another all-American match between Marjorie Gladman of Los Angeles and Mary Greef of Kansas City.

HELEN WILLS, PARTNER LOSE

MANCHESTER, Mass., July 28.—(AP.)—Miss Helen Wills easily defeated Miss Edith Cross, San Francisco, 6-1, 6-3, in the singles finals of the fourth annual Essex County Country Club tournament yesterday, but met with surprising defeat in the semi-finals of the mixed doubles. With her partner, Alan Herrington, Stanford University, she was eliminated by Miss Marjorie Morrill, Dedham, and Benjamin Gorchakoff, Los Angeles, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1.

Miss Morrill and Gorchakoff went on to defeat Mrs. George W. Wightman, Longwood, and Frank Luce, Jr., Boston, in the finals of the mixed doubles, 6-3, 6-1. Their victory prevented a clean-up of the tourney by California players.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Chicago — Babe Ruth defeated Henry Lenard, 10 rounds.

At Denver, Col.—Lou Scozza defeated Maxie Rosenbloom, 10 rounds.

At San Francisco—Santiago Zorrilla defeated Bud Taylor, 10 rounds; Billy De Foe and Billy Burke drew, 8 rounds; Clarence Donovan knocked out Artie Sullivan, 1 round.

CHAMPION PRAISED BY OLD CRITICS

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor of The Sun-Telegraph.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Gene Tunney may be with us for one more fight—or he may be like all of the other champions, which means that he will not know when to quit and will remain in the ring until some young fellow comes along and knocks the crown from his pompadoured noble dome.

There were some reports before Thursday night's battle with Tom Heeney up at the Yankee Stadium that this was to be the kid's last fight. Gene gave that dope a kicking in his dressing room as he was receiving the plaudits of his friends after the bout.

"Why should I speak of retiring from the ring in my hour of victory?" he asked. And it goes without saying that the assembled gang could not think up a satisfactory answer for that poser.

But Gene may make up his mind all of a sudden that he has his pile and wants to quit and live the easy life of a country gentleman. He'll be back with us at least once more—that much is certain. In knocking out Heeney he accomplished something that no other foe of the Rugged Rock has been able to do, and he will ride back on the wave of the favorable aftermath. For the first time in his career Gene now is hearing the mob hail him as an honest-to-goodness fighter with a punch, instead of turning thumbs down on him as one of "them hit-and-run guys."

TO GO ABROAD

Gene left town yesterday and plans to visit in the country with his mother and sisters and brother until he leaves with Thornton Wilder, the novelist, for England, sailing August 16. It is unlikely that he will be again this year. When he again steps into a ring to defend his title his opponent—if Tex Rickard makes good on a promise voiced just before the Heeney fight—will be Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, the current light-heavyweight champion, and a man whose cleverness should give him a good chance with Gene, a much better chance, indeed, than the ruggedness or fighting qualities of the Heeneys, Paulinos and Riskos.

If Loughran doesn't get the next fight with Tunney, it is a good bet that Gene's opponent will be selected from a group comprising Sharkey, Risko, Paulino and Knute Hansen, the melancholy Dane of Wisconsin, who knocked out Phil Scott in the first round in the latter's American debut, after which Phil went 10 close rounds with Risko in Cleveland.

Hansen was introduced from the ring at the big fight the other night and got quite a hand. He is said to be a fine boxer, a great hitter and to lack only a certain amount of fighting spark or ambition.

Billy Gibson, manager of Tunney, is said to be trying to buy his contract, and there may be some significance in this move, looking toward an early decision by Tunney to give up the ring.

The New York press has been full of nothing but the most flattering praise for Tunney ever since he cut down and finally technically knocked out the challenger in the eleventh round after being cheated out of a complete knockout by the bell with Heeney unconscious on the floor in the tenth round, and it must make the champion swell with pride after the great amount of abuse he has suffered in his home town.

There is no doubt now that Tunney will go down in the records as one of the greatest combination boxers and punchers that ever ascended the throne. The cumulative effect of his punches is terrific, and nearly everybody agrees that only the fact that both of his bouts with Jack Dempsey were limited to 10 rounds prevented the old Manassa Mauler from caving in, even as Car-

Holohan Gets O.K. Of Board

By JESS CARVER.

THE Athletic Council of Duquesne University, at a meeting yesterday, formally approved the appointment of John D. Holohan, for the past four years manager of athletics at Duquesne University to the post of graduate manager of athletics.

The appointment itself was made some time ago, and announced exclusively in The Sun-Telegraph. Yesterday's action of the council was merely a formal gesture.

Holohan graduated from the school of accounts in June. He has been closely allied with Duquesne University campus and athletic life since his enrollment in the university in 1924. Prior to that he received valuable early training in the preparatory school attached to the university.

The new graduate manager was one of the first members of the present Tri-State Class B Conference board of directors and has been publicity director of the Conference for the past two years.

Through the Sport Lens

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

THERE is a chance that Tom Heeney, the defeated New Zealander, will always tell his friends that in his bout with Gene Tunney he lost by an eyelash. In the eighth round Heeney began acting like a man who suddenly feels a speck of dirt in his eye. He first blinked the optic, then he stared in puzzled fashion, shook his head from side to side, and rubbed his eye with his glove. After the bout he said that one of Tunney's gloves turned an eyelash inward and this was what hurt him more than anything else. Tunney's version is different. It is his theory that one of his blows temporarily paralyzed Heeney's optic nerve and that it was this paralysis which made Heeney imagine there was something in his peeper.

After the eighth round, Heeney's eye did not seem to bother him. Either the paralysis wore off or the eyelash came out. More serious worries attacked the sturdy blacksmith. A spongy nose that shot claret with the impact of Tunney's glove; a mouth that spurted a crimson gusher when a brown glove smacked into it, and worse than anything—a belly that heaved and swelled and rolled, and complained to the legs below, that those right hand punches and left hooks were too much to stand.

THE Heeney head was willing, but the belly complained and admonished the legs below to retreat. It resulted in the usual compromise. The head would command the body forward for a spell, but when a left hook would sink itself into the stomach, the legs took sides with the stomach and backed away to less dangerous ground.

IN the rest period between the tenth and eleventh rounds I spent half the time watching Heeney's handlers working frantically to bring Thomas out of his dangerous coma and the other half observing the reactions of that cool gentleman, Tunney. By a chance of time, Tunney had been deprived of a clean-cut knockout, and faced the prospect of continuing fighting. Some fighters so close to splendid victory get upset in such a situation, but Tunney was anything but upset over the twist of circumstances that allowed the bell to save Heeney momentarily. He sat in his corner, did Tunney, watching with interest, tinctured, I thought, with solicitude, the Heeney handlers who were trying to awaken their man for the next bell. Most boxers in Tunney's position there would have expressed a hope that the foe would be unable to respond. But Tunney looked on with no consideration for his own part. He had the air of saying: "Now, isn't that a strange spectacle over there—those big fellows rubbing and rubbing the poor fellow's head so he'll have to come out to take some more punching."

IN the preliminaries to the start of the bout I got some pleasure out of studying every movement of Tunney, particularly the expression in his blue eyes, which are clear as mountain water. Forced to be a mind-reader I should say that Tunney was expressing these words, by a wink now and then, and by an amused, gracious look at Heeney. I believe that Tunney in those moments when he was posing with Heeney for a picture before the start of the bout would have said:

"I am the steadiest and coolest man in this entire stadium. My friends fear for me. My enemies are pinning futile hopes on this strange looking bulk of humanity I am to fight. No one, but myself, knows how good and how serene I feel. I'm like the driver who has hold of the steering wheel and has a great brake in case of trouble. All the others are rear seat drivers. They don't know what command I have of this situation. I don't drink. I don't smoke. I don't cut up in any of the sinful paths of life. I'm as hard as iron. I am smarter than this fellow. I believe I know more about humans than he does. I don't believe he is intelligent enough to think as quickly as I can. Somehow, all this strikes me as funny, and you'll pardon me now if I smile as I look down at Heeney, and please excuse the wink that I am making in the direction of my friend there in the press box. Yes, Heeney looks big and strong, and yet I'll grab those big arms and I'll hold him anytime I care to. What a funny old business this fighting racket is. I know I am acting just like a movie actor would act if cast as a heavyweight champ, but it's natural with me. You can't imagine how safe and secure I feel. And aren't they funny people all looking up at me?"

40,000 See Ceremonies

AMSTERDAM STADIUM, July 28.—(AP.)—With flags flying in cool breezes under overcast skies and 40,000 spectators jamming the great elliptical amphitheater, the ninth Olympiad formally opened this afternoon in a spectacular ceremony.

Just as a naval signal man wigwagged the opening command, the sun broke through for a few brief minutes to make a sparkling picture as a chorus of 1,200 sang the Dutch national anthem from a location across the field from the official tribune.

Rain throughout most of the morning did not prevent Amsterdam from apparently turning out en masse with the result that the stadium gates were closed a half hour before the ceremony started at 2 o'clock. Thousands were turned away in a last-minute crush which caught many late arriving Americans unprepared.

Schalk In Row With Comiskey Over Release

CHICAGO, July 27.—(AP.)—Ray Svhalk, former manager of the Chicago White Sox club, and Charles A. Comiskey, president of the club, have wrangled in public statements over the terms by which Schalk, on July 4, left the team.

Schalk declared the White Sox club officials offered him a settlement which was "ridiculously low and unfair." Comiskey declared that Schalk had previously said he "could not have been treated any finer by his own father."

"The ball club got away from him. In May this year he wrote to me stating as long as the team was going bad and he was of no service to the club, he wanted to cut his own salary $10,000. This I refused," the statement said.

"Schalk was paid more money than any other catcher ever received on any major league ball team.

"He could have continued on my salary roll to sit on the bench if he so desired, on the same basis that I have been paying my active catchers.

"The Schalk matter is a closed incident as far as the White Sox or myself is concerned."

CHILLY SAUCE By CHILLY DOYLE

Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

BOSTON, July 28.—The action of the Pirates in their final clash with the Giants was in sad contrast to the play of the team on many big occasions. Adams and Hargreave made a couple errors in clinches that made the team look bad. The new catcher has had a lot of trouble in throwing out runners on account of a sore hand. Opposing clubs are taking liberties with him and they are getting away with them, his throws to the middle bag being quite a bit off color.

ADAMS missed an easy toss from Wright that led to a run. Wright also had a rather hard day in the shortfield, although one of his two errors was recorded on a long throw which he had to uncork after making a beautiful stop on the edge of the outfield grass. A hit could just as well have been scored on this play.

THE Giants play something like .400 ball in the West, but once they get back to their beloved Polo grounds they are happy, as they go back to their habit of swinging for the short fences. They are often able to recoup lost ground during a long stay on the home field, although on the first invasion of the western clubs the men of McGraw lost seven of 13 fights.

THE Cardinals had to be satisfied with an even break in Brooklyn, Dazzy Vance gaining a decision over them yesterday in the final. The leaders were able to get through their first leg of their seaboard journey without a loss of grounds to the Cubs, but the Reds and Giants each picked up some appreciative territory.

THE Giants are hustling in such a manner as to reflect the feeling expressed by McGraw to the effect that his club is very much in the race. The many reverses sustained by the Broadway stars while they toured thte West caused many people to believe they were just about "shot," but the campaign has yet more than two months to run and a lot of things can happen in eight weeks of torrid ball.

RAY SCHALK CLAIMS UNFAIR TREATMENT

CHICAGO, July 28.—Ray Schalk, who was relieved July 4 as manager of the Chicago White Sox, in a statement issued here charged he had been treated unfairly by Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the club.

Schalk stated he had been asked to resign with the understanding that he would go back to his berth as catcher. He had been offered a contract with a salary "so ridiculously low and unfair" that he could not accept it, he said.

Ring Critics Laud Gene

pentler, Gibbons and Heeney were unable to stand the gaff over the long route. Dempsey was in a bad way at the final bell in both of his fights with Tunney.

JACK STEALS SHOW

At that Dempsey stole the show from Tunney once more when he was introduced from the ring before the Heeney fight. The crowd went wild, Joe Humphries outdid himself in giving Dempsey a great send-off and embarrassing Tunney and, altogether, the situation simmered down to, as one ringsider put it, "Tunney has beaten Dempsey twice, and yet he's not the champion." He might have added that Dempsey will be the champion with many folks until he goes to his grave. But he would have had to tone down his remarks after the knockout of Heeney, for there were thousands in the crowd after it was all over who finally were willing to accept Tunney for what he really is, not only a champion, but a rattling good one.

Tunney fought his usual heady fight to accomplish the utter ruin of Heeney. Starting out at a cyclonic gait and trading punches in an effort to score a quick and sensational victory, if possible, he found Tom too tough to be disposed of while he was still fresh, and, beginning with the second round, Gene proceeded to go systematically about scoring that knockout that he needed to clinch a hold on the public. He scattered his shots, jabbing and hooking his left to the jaw and hooking to the body and sinking murderous rights over the heart and crossing crashing rights to the jaw. Those rights to the heart played the biggest part in encompassing the downfall of the sturdy challenger. He began to wilt after five or six rounds and then, when his left eye began to bother him in the eighth round, he did his first back-pedaling.

In the ninth and tenth rounds, Heeney suffered excruciating pain in body as well as in the optic and he hadn't a squawk in the world when the referee finally stopped it after the bell and saved him in the tenth round. Tom later contended he could have come back with a minute's rest and was sorry the bout had been halted with only eight seconds of the round to go, but there was not a single complaint from the crowd about the action of the referee.

BLAMES GENE'S THUMB

Accounting for the trouble with his left eye, Tom said it was caused by the thumb of Tunney's glove, quite accidentally. He said the eyelashes were turned in on the eyeball and caused him great annoyance. Tunney's explanation was that he had paralyzed the optic nerve with a right to the temple. If Heeney's version is correct, he may go back and tell the home folks he lost by an eyelash, but that is unlikely, for he accepted defeat with fine sportsmanship and was loud in his praise of the victor. Tom is still being treated for his injuries.

Much of the aftermath of the bout had to do with speculation regarding the actual loss suffered by Promoter Rickard and his famous 600 millionaires in the Madison Square Garden Corporation.

The real figures may never be known and the guessing ranged all the way from $100,000 to $400,000. Rickard finally placed it at $155,000. It was an expensive party for Rickard, who probably is wondering what the fans are yelling about when they are asked to pay $40 for a ringside seat.

Instead of taking the blame for picking an inferior opponent for Tunney, Tex attempted to shunt off the responsibility on the radio and the excessive 25 per cent Federal luxury tax on all tickets costing $5 or more. He received $15,000 for the broadcasting rights and $20,000 from the moving picture rights of the bout, but he says "never again" insofar as the radio is concerned unless he gets a tremendous amount of money from this source to compensate him for his ticket loss. Too many folks prefer to stay at home and hear the bouts in comfort rather than join the bustling crowds at the arenas.

Tex Rickard Adopts New Policy

NEW YORK, July 28.—Tex Rickard completed his plans today for insuring himself against financial disaster in future battles of the century.

They were:

1. Give no fighter a guarantee.
2. Hold no more heavyweight championship bouts in July.
3. Refuse to allow his fights to be broadcast.
4. Try to find somebody who can give Gene Tunney an interesting battle.

Hansen-Sharkey Bout Discussed By Rickard

NEW YORK, July 28.—(INS.)—A proposed match between Jack Sharkey and Knute Hansen, the melancholy Dane, who returned last week from a long stay abroad, was discussed today by Tex Rickard and Walter Friedman, who is now handling Hansen's affairs.

Rickard does not know whether Sharkey will consent to meeting so formidable an opponent as the Danish giant so early in the 1928-29 heavyweight elimination trials, but if he can make the match he may stage it at one of the local ball parks early in September or at Madison Square Garden later in that month as the first move in his campaign to produce a challenger for Tunney a year from next fall.

Tex says there will be no more mid-summer heavyweight title fights under his promotion.

INJUNCTION ALLOWS GOTHAM DOG RACES

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—Attempts by police to interfere with the opening card of greyhound races at Dongan Hills, Staten Island, last night were halted by a restraining injunction issued earlier in the day by Supreme Court Justice Strong.

The races, which have attracted entries from the kennels of Billie Burke, actress, Benny Bengough, New York Yankees catcher, and other prominent persons were just starting when a squad of police entered the gates and prepared to make arrests on charges of illegal betting. The injunction was produced and the police withdrew.

The injunction is returnable before Justice Strong on August 4. The races are listed to continue 40 days.

RADIO HELPED FIGHT SPORT, OFFICIAL SAYS

NEW YORK, July 28.—The boxing game has been helped by broadcasting, said Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company.

"The radio is one of the great mediums of advertising and the boxing game can use such advertising," Aylesworth said.

"Take the Tunney-Heeney fight for example. I am not a fight expert but it looks to me as if the reason it was a financial failure was that many of the regular fans thought it was going to be a dull fight, not worth going to.

"Tex Rickard knows what the radio has done and is doing for his game and I am sure he will not want to shut the radio out."

LOMBARDO-WILLS SIGN

PANAMA, July 28.—(AP.)—Jose Lombardo, Panaman featherweight champion, and Young Harry Wills have signed articles for a 15-round championship bout here on September 9.

HOOSIERS KEEP COMOROSKY

The efforts of the Pittsburgh baseball club to get Outfielder Adam Comorosky back from the Indianapolis team to take the place of Pete Scott in the Pirate lineup have been unsuccessful for the reason that the owners of the Indians refuse to give up the player at this time.

One June 2 Comorosky was sent to the Indianapolis club under option, Pitcher Ervin Brame being sent along with him in exchange for Pitcher Bill Burwell. The option gave Pittsburgh the right to repurchase Comorosky in the fall, but in view of the crippled condition of the Buccaneer outfield the Pirate officials were confident that the Indian bosses would consent to return the Polish lad ahead of time.

President Dreyfuss said today, however, that requests made by both himself and Manager Donie Bush, who formerly piloted Indianapolis, for the immediate return of Comorosky had met with a flat refusal on the part of the Indianapolis chiefs, the latter declaring that they could not afford to let Comorosky leave now, as his all-around work is keeping the Indians ahead of Kansas City and St. Paul in the hot three-cornered race in the American Association.

President Dreyfuss received a telegram from Secretary S. E. Watters today, saying that Pete Scott is improving steadily, but that it had been deemed advisable for him to remain in the Lutheran Hospital in New York for a few more days. It is now said that Scott will be able to resume playing in about 10 days.

ESPINOSA PAIR LEAD IN WESTERN OPEN

CHICAGO, July 28.—(AP.)—Two of the Espinosa family of six golf professionals carried away all the honors yesterday in the western open golf championship and among those they held back was the national open champion, Johnny Farrell.

It fell to the eldest of five brothers, Abe, familiar for Abelard, to set off the fireworks. He broke the competitive course record at North Shore with 35x34—69 and topped the field with 143, one stroke better than his brother Al, formally Albert, who shot 37-36—73 to take second place.

The national champion and some other famous players were not playing up to their class. Farrell took 76, owing to many bad shots on the second half, to tie at 150 for fifteenth place, seven strokes back of the leader, while Chick Evans, formerly national open and amateur champion, took 79 for 155.

Big Bulls Have Not Quit; Business to Use Air Mail

By B. C. FORBES

BIG business is appearing in a new role politically. Influential leaders who were rock-bound Republicans are here and there switching over to Gov. Smith. And we read of prominent Democrats switching to Candidate Hoover. By the one stroke of inducing John J. Raskob to lead his campaign, Gov. Smith placed his party in a new relationship with industry and business. That he has robbed his party of some of the terrors it formerly possessed for many business men is already self-evident. Of course, the new condition has been made the more feasible because there are Prohibitionists and anti-Prohibitionists in both parties.

Altogether, it promises to be a novel campaign.

THE hot weather has not caused all the bull pools to quit. The wealthiest bulls have not changed their attitude. For the present they have curtailed their operations. But they have no hesitation in letting you know that they mean to become aggressively active again before long.

Their main worry, naturally, is the high rates which have ruled for money. When time money costs 6 per cent, a 5 per cent or a 5½ per cent call money rate doesn't mean exactly what it seems; there is too great danger that the day-to-day charge will shoot up drastically overnight. This danger is viewed as especially great now that so large a part of brokers' loans are not supplied by the banks in the customary way, but come from corporations, individuals and foreign interests who would not hesitate to withdraw their funds whenever such action suited them, regardless of the effect it might have on stock quotations.

Meanwhile, there has been a notable absence of public unloading of stocks. One finds, too, many sold-out bulls who confide that they mean to re-enter the market whenever prices drop—if they do drop. This waiting policy has not lately proved costly. The great majority of stocks have not been advancing.

A READER, George A. Hughes, writes:

"I read with much dissatisfaction the letter criticising your writing methods and calling you a propagandist for big business. It is very evident that that letter-writer does not read your articles regularly, otherwise there would not have been room for such criticism.

"I have been reading your articles for years and am glad to say that they have been an education. I ask this writer if he ever read your articles when you advocated six days' work a week for railroad workers throughout the country, which I am inclined to believe brought results.

"I am only a clerical worker, but this does not make me detest big business as same is necessary. Only yesterday Mr. Sloan, of General Motors, took out policies aggregating $400,000,000 for the workers."

THE half-yearly report of Bancitaly Corporation indicates that A. P. Giannini has not lost the art of making money. It reveals another thing, namely, that Mr. Giannini believes more fully in publicity than do many others. He publishes a list of the securities owned by the corporation.

The writer did not hesitate in warning against clamoring for Giannini stocks earlier in the year when they were selling at what obviously were dangerously high prices. On the Pacific Coast there was far too much speculation in them to be healthy. Bancitaly shares selling not far above $100 manifestly are at a saner level than when they were selling at $200 and $220 a share. It is to be hoped that the quietening down of speculation in Giannini, as well as other bank stocks, will continue. His were not the only ones which were overboomed. Some of the others have also had severe declines.

THE air mail promises to be used much more freely from now on, thanks to the coming reduction (on August 1) of the rate from 10 cents a half-ounce to 5 cents a full ounce.

One of the great chain store companies has just issued orders to all its managers outside of the home office area to use the air mail for all first-class matter. One manufacturer distributing a light commodity throughout the country is considering the closing of an inter-mountain distributing house and having orders in that territory filled by air mail. Air mail companies having contracts with the government are now transporting about three and a quarter tons of first-class mail daily, exclusive of heavy shipments by air express and of passengers.

Before we are much older we will see tremendous developments in the air. No nation worships speed more than we do.

BUSINESS sentiment is at least a little more cheerful than it recently was.

Meeting Notices

NOTICE OF MEETING.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 23, 1928

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pittsburgh Forge and Iron Company will be held at the office of the company, No. 1306 Chamber of Commerce Bldg., Pittsburgh, Pa., on Tuesday, August 7, 1928, at 3 o'clock p. m., for the election of directors to serve for the ensuing year, and for such other business as may properly come before the meeting.

W. L. MILLER, Secretary.

STOCK MARKET PRICES GO HIGHER

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—A further substantial recovery in prices took place in today's stock market. Buying orders were distributed over a fairly broad list, but centered largely in the high priced industrial specialties, motors, farm implements, steels and public utilities. The gains ran from 1 to 6 points.

Bullish enthusiasm was created by the relative ease of call money in the face of approaching this month-end settlements and the fact that the market had definitely broken out of the narrow trading area within which it had been moving, on the upside. Favorable earnings reports and the optimistic tenor of the weekly mercantile reviews also helped to stimulate buying.

Montgomery Ward regained its old position as a market leader by climbing nearly 6 points to a new high record at 176¾. Commercial Solvents jumped 5⅝ points, Hudson Motors 4⅛ and Radio, Eastman Kodak, Case Threshing, Electric Auto Lite, Lambert and International Telephone advanced 2 to nearly 4 points.

The closing was strong. Total sales aggregated 1,000,000 shares.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Linseed's Business Improves.

While American Linseed Company issues only a yearly statement, it can be said on good authority that in the half-year ended June 30, net profits were sufficient to cover the full year's dividend needs of around $1,200,000 on the preferred stock. This is a substantial increase over the like period of 1927 and assures the company of its best year since 1919. With earnings running at a $7 rate on Linseed's common stock, it would seem reasonable to expect the establishment of a dividend basis before long. It is understood that as yet directors have not given consideration to common dividends and action will be held up until preferred dividend accruals are cleared up.

Motors Earned $9 in Half Year.

General Motors Corporation first six months consolidated net income was $161,267,974 after charges, equal after senior dividends to $9 a share on the common against $129,250,207 or $7.18 a share in the first half of 1927. June quarter net income was $91,799,398 or $5.14 on the common, against $69,468,376 or $3.86 a share in the previous quarter and $76,698,799 or $4.27 on the present capital for the June, 1927, quarter. President A. P. Sloan, Jr., of General Motors Corporation, said: "Cash, United States Government and other marketable securities, at June 30, 1928, amounted to $264,383,668. This constitutes a record for cash and and cash items in the history of the corporation. I might add that the net working capital amounted to $320,346,653 and shows an increase of $47,422,677 since December 31, 1927. This, after deduction of the extra dividend requiring $34,800,000, paid July 3, 1928. Current conditions are satisfactory." Earnings for the June quarter and six months include General Motors' equity in undivided profits of subsidiaries not consolidated.

Corn Products Profits Gain.

Corn Products Refining Company net profit was $6,026,054 for six months to June 30 after depreciation, interest and federal tax, against $5,552,266 in the 1927 period. This is equal to $2.03 a share on 2,530,000 common shares after preferred dividends, against $1.85 a share in 1927. June quarter net income totaled $3,311,346 or $1.13 on the common, against $2,714,708 or 90 cents in the previous quarter and $2,814,887 or 94 cents in the June quarter, 1927.

Merchants' Stocks Low.

Dun's weekly trade review says: With more activity in certain lines than commonly prevails at this period, July has been a month of encouraging commercial conditions. The normal seasonal restraints militate against any broad expansion, but their repressing influence is less generally evident than usual, and some actual gains recently have developed. With that trend and with the constructive elements in the situation retaining their strength the outlook for autumn trade in which the chief interest centers now is being regarded with increased confidence. The status of merchandise stocks in most quarters is reassuring without burdensome accumulations, and there is no indication of any prospective departure from the prudent policy of purchasing almost exclusively for well-defined requirements. There does not exist at present, as on some previous occasions, the over-extension of commitments that invariably leads to forced liquidation with its accompanying unsettlement and buyers are not impelled to operate in advance of needs by reason of rapidly rising prices. The level of wholesale quotations has changed only moderately, having for a long time maintained exceptional stability and the absence of disturbing fluctuations naturally is helpful to the orderly course of business. Weekly bank clearings $8,853,836,000, an increase of 1.1 per cent over last year.

Fairbanks, Morse Profit Up.

Fairbanks, Morse & Co. earned $2.04 a share on the common stock after preferred dividends in the first half of 1928, against $1.53 a share in the first half of 1927. Net profit moved up to $1,004,408 after charges and federal taxes from $818,674 a year ago. Orders received from customers in the second quarter were $8,752,476 against $8,615,811 in the second quarter last year. Unfilled orders on June 30 were $1,200,000 greater than on January 1.

Pennsylvania Securities Licenses.

Granting of licenses to sell securities to two dealers and refusal to register four others were announced by the Pennsylvania Securities Commission. Licenses were granted to Gleich & Co., Pittsburgh, and the Clear Springs Water Service Company of New York. Applications refused were the Automotive Process Corporation, New York; Franklin Mill Company, Inc., Wilkes-Barre; General Tool and Equipment Corporation, and the Gibble Bleiler Oil and Lease Company, both of Philadelphia.

Southwestern Copper Merger On.

Wall Street copper interests are talking of a merger of properties in the Southwest, particularly Arizona, forming a concern which would rank with the foremost producers. United Verde Extension Mining Company, Phelps Dodge Corporation, Calumet and Arizona Mining Company and Magma Copper Company are mentioned in the proposed alignment, the total market value of these companies is approximately $170,000,000. Last year they produced over 300,000,000 pounds of copper. While none of the bankers interested would say that the merger is assured, it was said that considerable progress has been made over the past few months. United Verde has been brought into the plan since its recent negotiations to sell its properties to the Newmont Mining Company failed.

Side Combs on Wall Street.

A merger with the C. Nestle Company of New York, largest manufacturers of permanent waving machines and beauty parlor supplies is announced by J. C. Murray, president and founder of the Le Mur Company of Cleveland. The deal will combine stock interests totaling approximately $5,000,000 and sales of $3,000,000 a year. The business and assets of the C. Nestle Company will be transferred to the new organization for $1,125,000, plus an appraisal of certain assets estimated at between $800,000 and $900,000. The company will have authorized capital of 200,000 shares of class A stock and 240,000 shares of class B. No immediate financing is expected.

Canadian Pacific Prospects.

Excellent crops and satisfactory industrial conditions in Canada indicate good earnings this year for the Canadian Pacific Railway, in the opinion of Edward W. Beatty, president. He looks for crops of a bumper variety. Mining development has been extensive this year and satisfactory progress has been made in oil exploration, he said. Steamship earnings are still below those of last year, due in part to less immigrant traffic, hotel operations are somewhat lower, but with tourist travel now on he expected it to improve until early fall. Earnings of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company are being well maintained, and he thinks the year's net should be almost as good as in 1927. He forecasts larger gross and net revenues from railroad operations for the second half of the year than the same period of 1927.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, July 28.—Despite large arrivals of corn in Chicago today, values went higher during the early dealings. July delivery of corn led the upturns in price, with offerings scarce and with previous sellers of September active as buyers. Opening unchanged to ½c up, corn soon scored gains all around. Wheat and oats were easier. Wheat started unchanged to ⅛c higher, but soon underwent a general sag. Provisions held about steady.

QUOTATIONS UNCHANGED IN WEEK-END SESSION

Small attendance and unusual indifference on the part of traders even for this season of the year combined to make this morning's session of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange one of the dullest of the year.

During the first half of the trading period, the hour from 10 to 11 o'clock, only two stocks appeared in the sales list and the combined sales of the two issues totaled less than 100 shares. The stocks were American Window Glass Machine common and Armstrong Cork, both of which sold unchanged, the former at 18 and the latter at 56½.

At the beginning of the second hour Arkansas Gas preferred came in at 7¼, up the smallest fraction from last night's close. However, the market failed to develop any demand, nor was there any disposition to sell at the figures in the "bid" and "ask" column. Quotations posted on the general list showed very little change from the previous closings. Suburban Electric was traded at 18½, its average price level of the past few days. Standard Sanitary failed to reflect the favorable earnings statement issued this morning and was quoted at 38 here, unchanged. Opening sale on Standard in New York was also at 38.

First National Bank slipped back to 364 after having moved up two points to 367 yesterday. Pittsburgh Brewing preferred was strong and advanced easily as the broker who has been taking the stock for the past several months raised his bid to get some odd-lot offerings in the market this morning. Near the close Arkansas preferred forfeited the early fractional gain and the common sold at 2¾, down ⅛.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, July 28.—The cotton market opened steady today at 8 to 9 points decline and was inactive in early dealings, although prices rallied partially from the lowest on week-end covering and in absence of selling pressure.

Prospects for more favorable weather in the eastern belt appeared to be partly offset by rains in the eastern portion of the southwestern belt. October contracts sold down to 20.71c and December to 20.52c and rallied 5 to 6 points from this level.

Private cables from Liverpool reported London and continental liquidation, owing to the threatened lockout at Lancashire with some trade calling. Cloth and yarn business was restricted.

Cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was reported at 70,922 bales against 69,120 a year ago and 56,775 two years ago.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—The bond market displayed its usual summer Saturday morning lethargy, with trading so light that the ticker tape scarcely moved, and most prices seeking lower levels. Convertible bonds attracted most of the buying and in this group prices firmed slightly in sympathy with the upward trend on the stock market. U. S. Government bonds also improved.

Dodge Brothers 6s again were in demand around 95, buyers apparently expecting that the proposed merger with Chrysler would be approved at the Baltimore meeting of stockholders. Public Service of New Jersey 4½s and a few other utilities were bought at higher levels.

Rails were irregular. The foreign list was steady.

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

ROUND TABLE of BUSINESS

Standard Plate Glass Shows Profit After Last Year's Deficit Of Half Million. Low Prices Blamed.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

AN increased volume of business, rigid economy and freedom from labor troubles made it possible for the Standard Plate Glass Company to show a small profit in the second quarter of this year in place of the deficits which had been reported since late in 1926. In volume the plate glass business has been good, but the company has suffered from low prices.

BEGINNING with a cut of 25 per cent, prices started on the toboggan in July, 1925. A total reduction of over 40 per cent took place before stability was reached in 1927. Foreign competition was the chief factor in the price weakness.

The final cut of about 10 per cent in January of last year, however, was brought about by the dumping of the output of the Ford Motor Company glass plants onto the market during the break in production of cars.

STANDARD attempted to put an advance into effect early this year, but failed, due to the fact that Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and other manufacturers refused to support the new prices.

A STRIKE at the Butler plant added to Standard's costs in the first quarter of this year, but these difficulties were settled several months ago.

In the second quarter of this year net profit after all charges of $1,267 was shown. This is not impressive unless it is compared with the losses of $229,921 in the first quarter of this year and of $52,542 in the corresponding quarter of 1927. For the entire year of 1927 a loss of $517,580 was reported.

CHANGES which have taken place in the markets for plate glass and the methods of production have contributed greatly to Standard's difficulties. The sudden popularity of the closed automobile as the consumer of half the plate glass manufactured, the consequent disturbance in the price structure, and the development of continuous processes for making the narrow glass needed for automobiles have all been mentioned in this column.

GLASS can be made at a profit at present prices by the continuous plants which draw a ribbon of glass from a tank. Much of the grinding and polishing required by the old method of casting small quantities of the glass is eliminated, and costs are reduced. Unfortunately, Standard has not been in a position to avail itself of these new methods. Experimental costs are high, and the installations require a large cash outlay.

STANDARD has recently, however, made arrangements for more modern grinding and polishing machinery. The cost of installation will be borne by the makers of the equipment. Standard will not have to make any payments unless the apparatus proves commercially successful.

IN spite of the losses of the past two years Standard remains in a good financial position. On December 31 current assets were $3,917,814, against current liabilities of $317,352. The funded debt consists of $3,000,000 of 6 per cent notes maturing in 1930. The company's ability to refund this obligation at its maturity will depend largely on its showing of earnings over the next two years. There is much that can happen to change conditions in the plate glass industry in that time.

THE present Standard Plate Glass Company was formed in 1923 by the merger of the Heidenkamp Plate Glass Corporation and the old Standard Plate Glass Company. The new organization was rather heavily capitalized, but its early earnings appeared to be ample to meet dividend requirements.

WITH the slump in glass prices the directors found it advisable to omit the dividend on the $4,983,400 of 7 per cent preferred stock in August, 1925. In April, 1927, the dividend on the $1,558,000 of prior preference stock was passed. The company has 191,965 shares of common stock.

The company is also engaged in the production of paints and varnishes. This part of the business has been showing a profit. An addition to the plant was made recently.

EASTERN STAR BARS 200,000

DENVER, Col., July 28.—After passing a resolution barring New York and New Jersey officers from future grand chapter assemblies, the nineteenth triennial international convention of the order of Eastern Star prepared to close.

The action followed failure to amend a split between these two states and the main body, which occurred several years ago over ritualistic differences. Some 200,000 members will be affected by the disbarment.

Dallas, Tex., was selected as the next convention city.

Mrs. Emma P. Chadwick, Seattle, acting most worthy grand matron for the assembly, was elected head of the order.

MAYOR DEFENDS GRISE AWARD

After Council had investigated the case for several months, only one member voted against an award of $6,500 to Oliver P. Grise for damages caused when his hotel at 47 Eleventh street was raided by police November 27, Mayor Charles H. Kline pointed out today when asked his reasons for signing the bill.

The objector in Council was James F. Malone, who said it was not logical for the city to pay for damages done by police unless the policemen were punished.

An investigation of the case was made by the Police Trial Board, the Mayor said. All of the officers who had participated in the raid as well as Grise and his witnesses appeared. Grise, he said, had been unable to identify any officer as responsible for the damage and had filed no suits, either civil or criminal, against them.

BANDIT TRIO ROBS STORE

John Mizer, confectioner at South Twenty-fifth and Sidney streets, South Side, was robbed of $8 by three bandits late yesterday.

Two of the men had entered and made a small purchase. Suddenly one produced a pistol, and held the storekeeper at bay while the other scooped up the money in the cash register.

They escaped in an automobile driven by an accomplice who had waited in the car.

BRADDOCK RAID BARES HOME BREW SUPPLY

The Central Hotel, at 226 Eighth street, Braddock, was raided by prohibition agents last night. A search led to the finding of 348 pints of homebrew, several crocks of beer mash and a quantity of moonshine, agents said. James J. Coyne, 32, of Grant street, Braddock, bartender, was arrested and released on bail. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the alleged proprietor, Mike Simons, the raiders said.

FATHER-IN-LAW DEMANDS SHE BE HELD

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., July 28.—(AP.)—Freed of one murder warrant and re-arrested under another was the experience yesterday of Mrs. Joe W. Hatfield, Gilbert school teacher, charged with having administered a fatal dose of poison to her mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Eastridge.

At a preliminary hearing before Magistrate W. R. Farrar, a motion by the defense for dismissal of the warrant was granted, when defense counsel insisted the state had not exercised due diligence in preparing its case. The defense held the prosecution had had ample time, but was not ready to proceed. This motion was made after Prosecutor George W. Crawford asked for postponements on the ground that examination of the stomach of Mrs. Eastridge had not been completed. The prosecutor's motion was overruled.

Mrs. Hatfield immediately was rearrested on a new warrant sworn out by the husband of the dead woman. The date for the preliminary hearing has not been set.

MOTOR SCOUTS TO GET TEST

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(AP.)—Historic Gettysburg battlefield is to be the next objective of the Army's most modern equipment, the experimental mechanized force. The invasion is to begin July 31 when Col. Oliver S. Eskridge's command, based at Fort Leonard Wood, Md., will move out, 200 vehicles strong.

At Westminster, Md., the first armored car troop of cavalry will split into four sections and precede the mechanized force on a broad front over different routes on a reconnaissance mission.

The force will encamp on the famous "Wheatfield," and the enlisted men will be shown over the battlefield.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that was centered over the lake region yesterday morning is now far down the St. Lawrence valley, over Quebec. It is still causing cloudy weather over the states east of the Mississippi and rain is falling at a few widely scattered places. Showers occurred yesterday and last night over the Middle Atlantic states, the New England states and the upper Ohio Valley states. The rains reported were light, except at Cleveland, where 3.66 inches fell, 3 inches of which fell yesterday afternoon. There were also generous showers over the West Gulf states and at scattered places over the Rocky Mountain states.

High pressure over the northern and central plains is producing mostly clear skies over that section and a change to cooler weather over the Upper Mississippi valley and the Ohio Valley states.

River Conditions.

Moderately heavy rains occurred over the Allegheny from Parkers Landing to Freeport, and there were generous rains over the Monongahela River. There are slight rises in the Monongahela, but not sufficient to materially affect the Ohio. Stage at Pittsburgh is 11.6 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.4, and Dam No. 6, 6.3 feet. The Ohio River dams are up and Herrs Island Dam will be raised today.

OHIO MINE PAY PARLEY SET FOR AUG. 2

COLUMBUS, O., July 28.—(AP.)—Ohio coal operators were invited yesterday by President Lee Hall of the Ohio Miners' Union, to meet with the executive board of the union here next Thursday to negotiate a new wage scale. The invitation was sent out to individual operators.

Although officials of the Ohio Coal Operators' Association, Cleveland, which controls a majority of the normal Ohio coal tonnage, made no immediate reply to Hall's invitation, it was indicated the members of the association would adhere to their former position of refusing to participate.

The invitation resulted from the parley with nine independent operators which had been sought by Hall to fix a date for a wage scale conference.

Hall said he felt certain the August 2 conference "will be attended by a large group of the state's operators and result in the setting of a definite wage scale for all Ohio miners."

In Memoriam 1-B

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear father and husband, Mr. Henry Dalverny, who died one year ago today, July 28, 1928.

God's golden sun is shining,
Upon our father's grave.
The one we loved so dearly
And tried so hard to save.
When we lost our dear father,
We lost our dearest pal.
We love you and we miss you,
And forever shall.
So rest in peace, dear father,
Your face is Heaven's tower;
The day when we shall meet you
Grows nearer every hour.

Sadly missed by wife, children, grandchildren and all who loved him.

In loving memory of my husband, Albert J. Gentile, who was suddenly killed one year ago today, July 28, 1927. Sadly missed by his wife.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Prospective Debs Leave for Summer Resorts to Prepare for Rigors of Coming Season

THE "season" is a strenuous one for debutantes always, but with the large list of girls coming out during the coming winter, it is likely to be an unusually active one. And it is starting so early, too—practically six weeks have been added to the usual length of the season—that the buds are probably going to be very tired girls before the first day of January arrives.

Most of the prospective debs have planned to go away, or have already gone, to spend the summer outdoors in preparation for the busy winter to come. A few are abroad, but most of them are spending the warm weather at one or another of the eastern shore resorts. One of them, for instance, Katherine McKibbin Schley, is making a visit of indefinite length at the Traymore Hotel in Atlantic City. She is with her grandmother, Mrs. Chambers McKibbin, of the Schenley apartments, and they are not sure just when they will come home again. Katherine, you know, is one of the few debutantes whose coming-out date has been announced. Mrs. McKibbin is going to give a tea November 7 in the Hotel Schenley to introduce Katherine to her friends.

A number of other local folks are in the East just now, too, for more or less brief visits. Mrs. George S. Oliver, whose summer home, you know, is in Cobourg, has come down to New York and is stopping at the Ambassador for a while. And at the same hotel are Mrs. Van Lear Perry Shriver, of Sewickley, and Mrs. Edward J. House.

THE engagement of one of winter-before-last's debutantes is being announced to her friends today, and, I believe, will terminate in a wedding during the coming winter. It is the betrothal of Martha Priscilla Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Webber Barnes, of Howe street, to William W. Whitcomb, of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association. Mr. Whitcomb is a son of Mrs. Baird Young, of Pittsburgh, and the late Eugene P. Whitcomb.

Priscella, you know, is a Dongan Hall girl, and she was also graduated from the Finch School in New York.

ANOTHER interesting social affair to be given during the fall season has just been made known. Mrs. Charles E. Dinkey, of Sheridan place, is going to entertain at tea in the Twentieth Century Club on November 16, I hear. She will have as her two guests of honor her daughter, Mrs. Donald Finlayson, of Ithaca, N. Y., the former Elizabeth Dinkey, and her new daughter-in-law, Mrs. Charles E. Dinkey, Jr.

The Dinkeys, I understand, are just back from Atlantic City, where they have been spending a short time after attending the wedding of their son in the East.

THE Sherwood Forest Club down in Maryland seems to be attracting quite a number of Pittsburghers. I understand that the Samuel McClays, of Devon road, and their daughter, Mrs. Murray Smith, have driven down for a short visit with friends there. And quite a few local people were guests at the dinner which W. F. Cochran, of Baltimore, gave this week at the "Clopston." Among them were the William H. Siviters, Mrs. G. R. Dorman and Miss Helen Dorman, Capt. and Mrs. James C. Pryor, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. McBride, Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Trauter, Mrs. John R. Davis, Miss Dorothy Scott, Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Bailey, Mrs. John G. Stephenson and her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bell, Dr. M. A. Slocum, Mrs. Glenn Sipe, Miss Bess Conley and Mrs. J. T. Gray.

* * *

MRS. ALBERT E. SHURR, formerly Miss Lois Lee Bankard, of Sheraden, was guest of honor at a farewell party at the Garden Tea Room recently. She will leave soon to make her home in Oswego, N. Y.

THE engagement of Miss Ruth Evelyn Campbell to Walter A. Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Allen, of Hazleton, Pa., has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Campbell, of Oak Hill Farms, Butler pike. Miss Campbell was graduated from Wellesley College and Mr. Allen is a Pennsylvania State College man. An October wedding is planned.

* * *

THE Sturgeon family will hold its thirtieth annual meeting in the Rhododendron Shelter House, Highland Park, on Thursday, August 23.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. A. W. WYCKOFF, of the Bellefield Dwellings, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Katherine Wyckoff, to Richard S. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Smith, of Cleveland.

THE next tea dance for summer students at the University of Pittsburgh will be held Tuesday at 3 o'clock in the Heinz House, and an evening dance for the summer students will be held Friday night in the Heinz House. Miss Isabel Anderson is social director.

* * *

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the marriage of Miss Helen Karns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Karns, of Cherry Tree, Pa., and Jessie D. McSwany, of Cumberland, Md., son of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. McSwany, of Mars, Pa., which was solemnized July 21, in Franklin, Pa.

* * *

MRS. SARAH ANDERSON, of North Negley avenue, and Mrs. Larrence Cropley, of Washington boulevard, have returned from a trip to Crystal Beach, Canada.

* * *

MISS ERMA H. HILLMAN, of Chester avenue, North Side, will entertain at dinner tonight at The Pines, in honor of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hawke, of Port au Prince, Haiti, formerly of Pittsburgh, who are making a short visit here. There will be 30 guests.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY TO OPEN SEASON OCTOBER 1

THE Keystone Association for Historical Research will open its season October 1, when members will honor the new president, Mrs. Dulcie Fiske Fairman, with a luncheon in the Congress of Clubs.

On October 22, members will visitthe international art exhibit, and on November 5, at a tea in the Congress of Clubs, they will discuss the origin of clubs. Three guest speakers, Mrs. John G. Chalfant, Mrs. Robert M. Ewing and Mrs. R. H. Dibble will relate the history of the woman's club movement, of the Young Woman's Christian Association, and of the League of Women Voters.

A round table discussion of historical homes and estates in Pennsylvania, and readings by Mrs. Annie O. Wilson are scheduled for the program on December 3.

The Christmas luncheon is set for December 17. Mrs. Fairman will give a talk on Charles Dickens.

Savings, wills, and taxes will be discussed by S. H. Allen and Paul S. Lamb in January. In February, the members will have a musical tea. The following month Mrs. Rollins A. Haddock, Jr., chairman of citizenship for this district of the State Federation, will talk on citizenship training, and Mrs. Charles Hanan will discuss Americanization work.

In April there will be a forestry day when members will consider old and new trails and Pennsylvania forests. The annual meeting in May, and the outing in June, will conclude the program.

DURING the summer many clubs try to increase their scholarship funds so that when September with its many college year openings comes around, they will be able to help more students. The Pittsburgh Panhellenic Association cleared $564.43 at the benefit performance it sponsored this month in the Nixon Theater. The total fund of the organization, available for scholarships this year, is now $1,100.

WITH the opening of the club season drawing near, clubs are naming their delegates to the various congresses of women. The board of directors of the Health Colony Club, at a meeting in the Congress clubhouse Wednesday afternoon, appointed Mrs. Robert K. Cochrane as delegate to the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women and to the Allegheny County Federation of Clubwomen.

Representing the Health Colony at meetings of the Congress of Clubs will be Mrs. Richard Brown, Mrs. E. D. Harshbarger, Mrs. David Stuhlfire, Mrs. A. H. McFerren.

Alternates to the Congress will be Mrs. Joseph Lane, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. Samuel Pearce, Mrs. J. A. West.

THE REV. B. A. WILSON, pastor of the Davis Avenue Baptist Church, will conduct vesper services under the auspices of the Woman's Community Association of the Twenty-seventh Ward Sunday evening at 7 o'clock on the lawn of the Brighton Road Presbyterian Church, Brighton road, North Side.

AUTO CRASHES KILL ONE, INJURE 4 OTHERS HERE

One man is dead and three other men and a woman are in hospitals today following automobile accidents.

John Smip, 40, Negro, of 6535 Hays street, died in the Passavant Hospital from injuries received July 21 when he was struck by a machine at Erin street and Center avenue. W. D. Ronovich, of 26 Wooster street, was ordered to give bail to the coroner. He is said to have been the driver of the machine.

Thrown from an automobile in a crash at Sixth and Webster avenues early this morning, Mrs. Marie Franz, 38, of 763 Washington road, Mt. Lebanon, suffered a probable fractured skull. She was a passenger in an automobile driven by her husband, Milton Franz. The car collided with another driven by George Acheson, 5744 Kentucky avenue. Both drivers were arrested.

Thomas Pedro, 38, of 39 Tunnel street, was seriously injured early today when run down by an auto driven by Cyril Sabol, 7902 St. Lawrence avenue, Swissvale, at Liberty avenue and Ferry street. Pedro was taken to Allegheny General Hospital with a fractured right knee and cuts and bruises. Sabol was arrested, charged with reckless driving.

John Kanya, 48, of 3000 Carson street, is in Mercy Hospital with cuts and bruises, received at Seventh avenue and Grant street, when run down by an auto driven by James Barone, 25, of 425 Climax street. Barone was arrested.

Thomas Fitzgerald, Jr., 21, of 5216 Fifth avenue, son of the vice president of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, was taken to the Pittsburgh Hospital this morning, suffering lacerations received when an automobile he was driving skidded on Beechwood boulevard near Shaw street, landing against a pole and a tree in front of the home of County Controller Robert Woodside.

SKYWARD

by Commander Richard E. Byrd

Byrd Decides to Hop Off On Trans-Atlantic Flight to France

CHAPTER XXVI.

IN THE meantime others planning for long flights were able to go forward with their preparations and were ready to leave.

While we were still working on the America, installing instruments and mechanical appliances and making our tests at Roosevelt Field, before we could possibly have been ready on account of our crash, other trans-Atlantic planes were being tuned up and reports of the imminence of their hopoffs, and ours, too, were in every edition of the daily papers.

That was tough, for the whole country looked upon us as feverishly active contenders in the great race. That crash—fate had indeed engineered me into a tight place. My stock was down to zero.

What was wrong with Byrd? What would the crossing of the Atlantic be with his great plane as compared to the other smaller ones in the race? Why was he delaying the hop-off?

I got thousands of letters, many of them reproving me unmercifully. Some of those fellows must have been betting on me in the race. I was called all sorts of ugly names.

"Coward," one typical letter read. "I am sick of seeing your name. You are a disgrace to America. You have never had any idea of flying across the Atlantic."

Many were worse than that.

Byrd's Problem

Our problem was somewhat at variance with that of others attempting to cross the ocean by air. I felt it important to go through a full series of scientific tests of plane and equipment, fuel and engine, in order that we should know exactly what our machine would do. To hasten this laboratory work for the sake of notoriety was to undermine the scientific character of our expedition. The others were using one-engined planes about which there were ample data available, and they already knew about what their planes would lift. Bellanca's single engined monoplane had already flown 50 hours.

No one knew just what a three-engined plane the size of ours could lift, or what its cruising radius would be. We had to find out.

Lindbergh and Chamberlin were on hand and ready to go. With much pleasure Mr. Whalen and I offered them our field.

When Lindbergh hopped off, early in the morning, we went down to the field to tell him goodbye and to wish him luck. It was a great moment when we saw his wheels just clear the telephone wire at the end of the runway.

Lindy Reaches Paris

Mr. Wanamaker had set May 21 as the date for the christening of the America. Many people had been invited to it. It was too late to call the ceremony off. Just as it began we received news of Lindbergh's arrival. Over 2,000 guests were gathered around the America to hear us tell about the scientific aspects of our flight, and the good-will we hoped would result from it. The French and American flags were hung side by side.

It was just a moment before I was to get up to speak that I got the news of Lindbergh's arrival. I could, of course, think of nothing else but his magnificent feat. I realized what it meant to aviation and to international good-fellowship. I had seen enough of Lindbergh to know that he would make an ideal representative of our country. I knew also that his flight would create far more enthusiasm for aviation than ours could possibly do.

We promptly turned our christening into a celebration of Lindbergh's safety and success. The stage was well set with the French and American flags hanging side by side.

I found out later that the news of his arrival was premature and that while I was describing to the crowd his great take-off Lindbergh reached Paris.

Byrd Criticized

The next day, in addition to letters, I got telegrams from all over the country criticizing me for not getting away first. I'm afraid a lot of fellows lost bets on us. They were very peeved. One man from North Carolina wired me as follows:

"I just want you to know, what you may not realize, that you are the world's prize boob to get left at the switch as you did."

It did not seem exactly the right thing to do to fly immediately to Paris while Lindbergh was still there. To delay a little did not hurt our flight; while to have gone might well have done harm to the fine work he was doing in cementing French and American friendship. We didn't know. We simply didn't want to take a chance of lessening in any way the wonder of that which was going on in France.

So I took things a little easily until after he had come back to America. But again I was not allowed to pursue my course without criticism. Hundreds of letters poured in reproaching me for not having more backbone. Such is the caprice of human nature.

However, having been projected into the "Trans-Atlantic Derby," this was all part of the game.

Thanks Newspapers

It was at this point that I had to thank the press for much heart-warming support. The great majority of the newspapermen assigned to cover my flight understood my plight; had seen the misfortune of our delay that had been caused by our crash.

They realized, too, I think, that we were not racing—that we were making a very serious effort to point the way for the trans-Atlantic plane of the future. A few of those fellows knew that we were suffering from having kept from the people as much as possible the drama and seriousness of our crash, so as to hurt commercial aviation as little as possible, so the people of the country did not understand that, even if we wanted to race, we were disabled and could not do so.

Fortunate had been those who had been able to make their preparations quietly.

But when I carefully explained to them day after day the difficulties of obtaining the then unknown facts about our complicated piece of mechanism, the three-engined plane, they showed themselves to be among the best sports I have ever come in contact with. I owe them a debt of gratitude I can never repay.

Important Point

This is an important point, because it is to the supporting press of America that advance in aeronautical interest is largely due. American newspaper editors and publishers were among the first to see and believe in the future of American aviation.

Few people realize how difficult it is, with a plane like the America, to obtain revolutions of the engines for the various loads carried that will give maximum mileage per gallon of gasoline used, because these revolutions vary for every different weight carried.

Of course, as the plane consumes gasoline, there will be an infinite number of ever-lightening loads. To calculate this we had to run over a course of known length, noting the speed over the ground and the fuel consumption for each number of revolutions. This had to be done for very many of the different loadings of the plane.

The calculations proved fairly accurate, but they were difficult to make because of rough air and wind blowing across the course, which affected our speed over the ground.

We decided, after many tests, that we probably could fly to Rome. In the meantime Chamberlin and Levine made their epochal flight to Germany, breaking the world's record for distance. Again I took my hat off. They flew through two nights and Chamberlin's wonderful success in locating their position after having been driven south by a storm was an astonishing feat.

After my return to Roosevelt Field from Lindbergh's reception in Washington and New York, we determined to make the flight at the first okay of the weather man.

Many times we sat up nearly all night hoping that the weather would be suitable for taking off next morning at daybreak.

At 1:00 a. m., June 29, 1927, Dr. Kimball phoned that, though conditions were not ideal, the weather was about as good as we could expect.

I had determined not to wait, because I felt that the trans-Atlantic plane of the future could not wait for ideal conditions. Moreover, we probably could gain more scientific and practical knowledge if we met some adverse weather.

FUGITIVES IN HILLS

BELLEFONTE, Pa., July 28.—(AP.)—A day of intensive searching has ended with no trace of the four men who escaped from Rockview Penitentiary. Prison officials expressed the belief the convicts have gone into hiding in the mountains in this vicinity.

The quartet, Joseph Getinski, Harry Allen, William G. De Young, and Robert M. Ruane, were among 50 inmates of the penitentiary at work constructing a reservoir some distance in the rear of the institution. At lunch hour they walked away and their absence was not noticed for 20 minutes.

Three of the men, Getinski, Allen and De Young, had only five or six months of their sentence to serve.

CONNELLSVILLE BAND TO GET STAND AT LAST

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 28.—Connellsville's Military Band will have a bandstand after years of agitation. The carpenters' union will erect the stand free, of donated lumber, on a site provided by the Board of Education. Free concerts will be given weekly.

BUFFALO'S SHIP FIRE TO COST MILLION

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 28.—(AP.)—A million dollars in property damage, one person drowned, one probably fatally burned and 28 others injured, was the toll of one of the most spectacular fires on the water front in years. An oil barge, on which the fire started early yesterday, a large steel oil tanker, the B. B. McColl of Toronto, Ont., and the city-owned fire tug, W. S. Grattan, were destroyed.

The oil barge, the James F. Cahill of Buffalo, was at the docks of the Atlas Refinery, on Buffalo river, two miles inland from the main harbor when an explosion enveloped the craft in flames, freed her from the dock by burning hawsers, and set her adrift to spread damage on both sides of the river for a half a mile.

Oil from the damaged barge covered the surface of the river and with every shift of the wind, docks, oil storage tanks of the Standard Oil Company and other water front structures were threatened.

Frequent bursts of flames swept the river and one of these caught the McColl. All her crew escaped, but members of the crew of the fire tug Gratton standing by, were trapped.

Thomas Lynch, veteran engineer of the fireboat, leaped overboard and was drowned. Lieutenant Henry Schickenbantz was seriously burned and all other members of the crew suffered injuries.

Floating oil from the McColl added to the difficulties of the fire fighters and it was impossible to approach the drifting Cahill which continued to blaze for hours. At one time the barge was carried beneath the South Buffalo Railroad bridge, but the structure was undamaged.

The shell of the barge Cahill sank last night near a temporary wooden bridge at Bailey avenue, half a mile from the dock where she was moored when the fire started.

Little hope is held out for the recovery of Nelson Halstead of Toronto, Ontario, a member of the crew of the barge, who was severely burned in the first burst of flames.

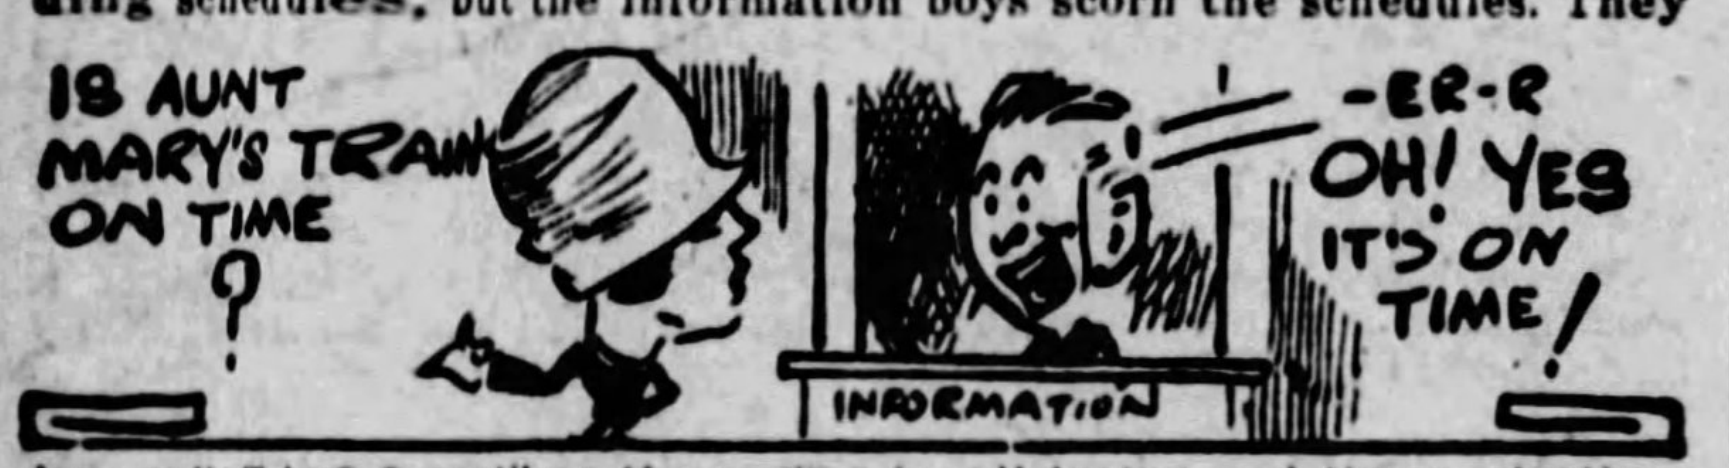
SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

IN THE Pennsylvania Railroad Station there is an information desk. At the desk are two genii, who upon seeing a client rub his inquisitive lamp, come forth with the correct answer with a speed that makes for an interesting performance.

Behind the desk, along the walls, are rows and rows of forbidding schedules, but the information boys scorn the schedules. They know "off by heart" as the saying is, all trains and times, starting points, terminals, layovers, transfers, expresses, accommodations, and everything.



IS AUNT MARY'S TRAIN ON TIME ?
-ER-R OH! YES IT'S ON TIME!
INFORMATION

We listened for five minutes and waited expectantly, hoping to see these boys juggle three or four oranges or chin a chair to give their act an appearanec of even greater variety.

One of the boys was an expert marksman with the product of a cud of chewing tobacco and he punctuated his sentences, always short and to the point, with deadly aim into a distant cuspidor.

"I want to get to Erie," says a fat man. "No train out of here for Erie, direct, tonight," comes the answer. "But you can get to Corry, lay over there, and reach Erie at . . ." and he gives the time. Having disposed of this problem the marksman takes a shot before turning to the next customer. "Yes, sir, in 10 minutes you get your train on track so and so." A lady wants to know where she might buy some apples for little Rollo. That one is so easy the boys behind the desk seem disappointed.

A RAILROAD station at night when the sleepers are being filled with night travelers produces an interesting pageant. The loud clang of the locomotive bell tops all sounds as a light engine rolls off to the roundhouse. . . . A blue-coated engineer, with a bandanna around his neck, leans out of his cab watching with interest the passengers he has just brought safely into the station. . . . Trucks loaded with trunks and mail pouches miraculously avoid each other. . . . A gateman asks for information over the phone. He wants to know what track Car 7505 is on. . . . The nearby engine lets off steam . . . Red caps run to meet an incoming train. . . . The observer wonders how system manages to merge from such seeming chaos. . . . And in such a bedlam a minute is valued more highly than in most other lines of work.

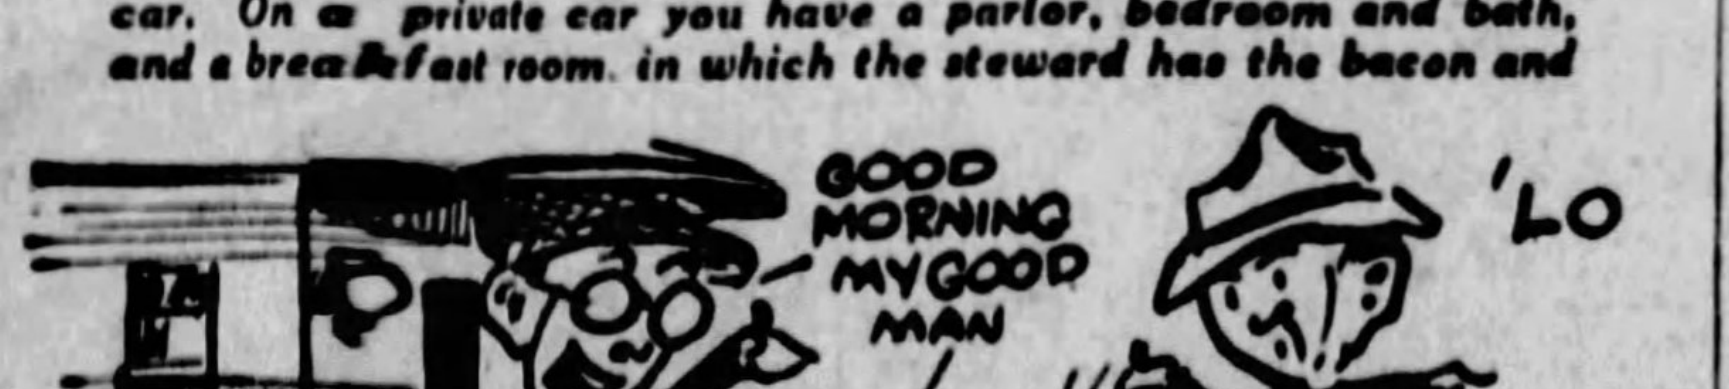
Harry Oliver, traffic manager of the Pennsy in our district, was kind enough to take us to New York in a private car. On a private car you have a parlor, bedroom and bath, and a breakfast room in which the steward has the bacon and eggs ready by the time you are dressed. Through it all, however, we remained very democratic. From the observation platform we waved cordially to the trackwalkers and foremen, and called out a "Good morning, my good men."



GOOD MORNING MY GOOD MAN !

If the manufacturers of private cars ever want a testimonial we'll write them a nice one.

Rules Play Stolen By Morosco

NEW YORK, July 28.—(INS.)—Mrs. Grace A. Fendler stood victorious today in her suit against Oliver Morosco, theatrical producer, and Richard Walton Tully, playwright, for the profits from the play, "Bird of Paradise," which she charged was plagiarized from her play "In Hawaii."

In a report filed in Supreme Court, Saul B. Baron, as referee, found that Morosco must pay the woman playwright $173,629 and Tully $608,361, the total award of $781,990 representing the total profits, plus interest, from the play. Profits from both stage and screen productions are included in the award.

Mrs. Fendler's attorneys immediately filed a motion in the Supreme Court for confirmation of Baron's report.

Mrs. Fendler testified that Morosco rejected her play in 1912, after holding the manuscript for some time. She charged that much of the play "Bird of Paradise," which appeared subsequently, was taken almost bodily from her play.

NEW CASTLE UNTIDY, COUNTY OFFICERS HINT

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 28.—Lawrence county wants no more short term prisoners from the city of New Castle unless they have first been cleaned up and rid of cooties. Such was the ultimatum issued yesterday by the County Commissioners, who instructed the sheriff to refuse to accept any more such prisoners. It has been found necessary to burn so many suits and to buy the prisoners a new supply that the cost has been excessive. The final straw was laid yesterday when a three-day city prisoner demanded new clothing, his own having been burned. All he got was a pair of old overalls.

Wingard turned the gun on himself also, dying instantly. Coroner T. C. McQuate said Wingard probably became temporarily deranged. Wingard was a former resident of Emlenton, Pa., and his wife once resided at Lamartine, Pa.

JOB GOES TO SLACK

INDIANAPOLIS, July 28.—(AP.)—L. Ert Slack, now is legally the mayor of Indianapolis.

The Indiana Supreme Court yesterday affirmed the judgment of the Marion County Circuit Court holding that Joseph L. Hogue, city controller under the late Mayor Lew Shank, had no legal right to the office now held by Slack.

Hogue claimed that John L. Duvall, former mayor, who was convicted of violation of the corrupt practices act, was never legally elected mayor, and consequently Mayor Shank continued in office. Since Shank had died meanwhile, it was claimed that Hogue as city controller succeeded to the office. The court last week affirmed a lower court judgment that Ira M. Holmes, another claimant, was not entitled to the office.

FIND WIFE GUILTY

BASTROP, Tex., July 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Rosie Waybourne, 48, today faced the prospect of spending the remainder of her life in prison for the murder last March of her husband, W. W. Waybourne, Smithville railroad man.

Testimony at her trial, which terminated yesterday in conviction and a 45-year imprisonment sentence, developed that she asked Hugo Middleton, her alleged sweetheart, to slay her husband, and when he refused persuaded him to employ a Mexican for that purpose. Middleton is under indictment for the murder.

The Mexican, Joe Morales, whom Middleton claimed to have hired, disappeared after the murder and was not produced at the trial.

Middleton, a blacksmith, who turned on the widow and testified against her, said he and Mrs. Waybourne had paid up premiums on the slain man's $12,000 life insurance policies.

He said a year's planning preceded the beating to death of Waybourne while his wife was on a trip to Austin, Tex. He testified Mrs. Waybourne turned over the key to her husband's room before she went to Austin, and that he gave it to Morales.

GEMS IN MYSTERY CASE GIVEN STORE BY SHERIFF

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—Jewels valued at $238,000, which were seized from Harry Winston, a Fifth avenue jeweler, to whom they had been sold for $91,000 by Mrs. Maria Josephine Leslie, were returned to the John Wanamaker store yesterday by the sheriff of New York.

Mrs. Leslie bought the gems at the Wanamaker stores in New York and Philadelphia on the account of Capt. and Mrs. Isaac Emerson, of Baltimore, by whom she was employed as housekeeper.

She sold them to Winston and three days ago the Wanamaker Stores obtained a writ of replevin on the ground that the jewels were not paid for and that their purchase was unauthorized.

The jewels were turned over to Grover Whalen and other representatives of the Wanamaker stores by Sheriff Culkin, Wanamaker's having given a bond for $480,000, the retail value of the jewels.

To regain possession of them pending court determination of ownership Winston would have to give a bond for approximately twice that amount.

Outlaw's Kin Sues Movies

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—(AP.)—Jessie Estelle James, granddaughter of Jesse James, filed suit in Superior Court yesterday against the Paramount - Famous - Lasky Corporation, Fred C. Thompson and others asking $80,000 damages on alleged breach of a film contract.

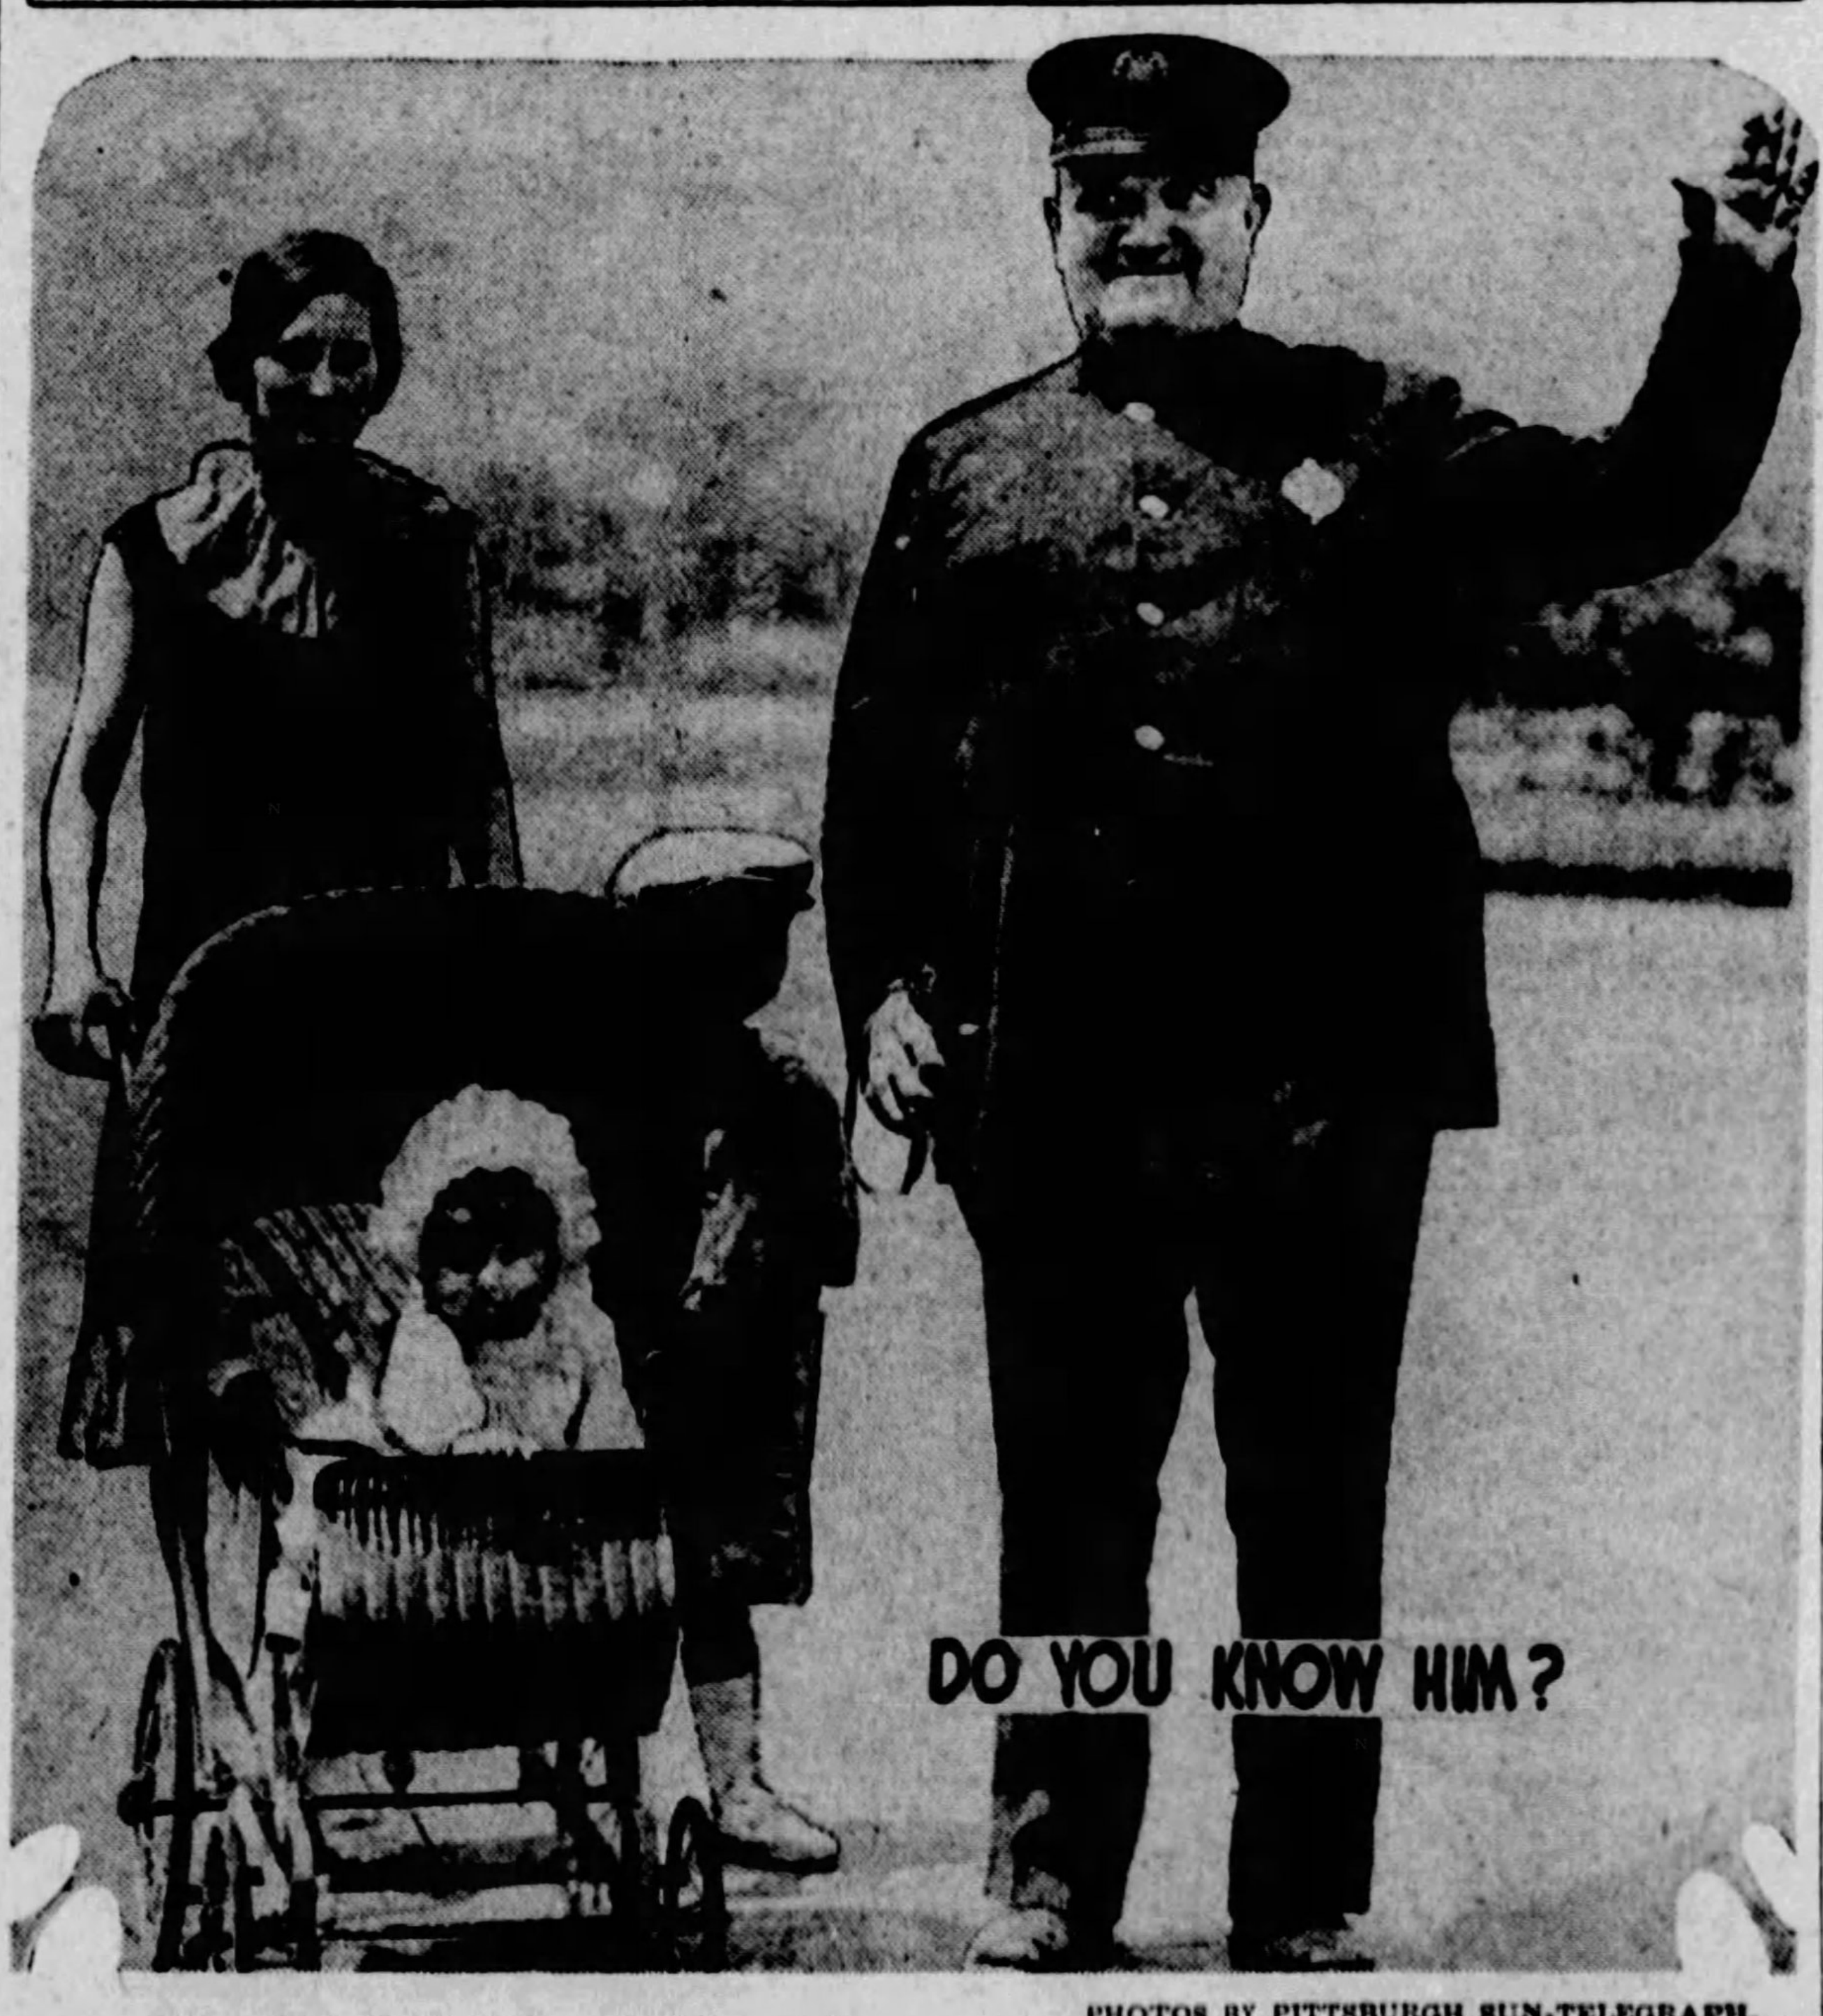
Miss James said that while engaged in secretarial work in Kansas City she was induced by the movie people to take part in a picture portraying the life of her grandfather by playing the part of Mrs. Zerelda Samuels, mother of the outlaw.

She said after giving up the position and breaking an engagement to marry, the defendants failed to make her an actress.

BROKEN RUDDER FORCES ARMY DIRIGIBLE DOWN

WILLIAMSBURG, W. Va., July 28.—(AP.)—A broken rudder forced the army dirigible T-10-254 to make a forced landing late yesterday about seven miles from this city. The six men aboard were uninjured.

DO YOU KNOW YOUR "TRAFFIC COP?"



DO YOU KNOW HIM?

MAKE HIS ACQUAINTANCE

You do not know the corner "traffic cop" who sweeps you through with a smile every day, do you? Would you like to know him, know his name and a little about him? The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph is publishing a series of pictures of Pittsburgh "traffic cops." Here is one for today. His name Monday!

YESTERDAY'S "TRAFFIC COP" WAS JOHN J. SOLCANY, MARRIED, 6036 STANTON AVENUE, WHO KEEPS AUTOMOBILES MOVING IN GOOD ORDER IN SCHENLEY PARK. ELEVEN YEARS OF HIS 19 YEARS' SERVICE HAVE BEEN SPENT IN THE TRAFFIC DIVISION.

One Shot, Bandits Balked

STEUBENVILLE, O., July 28.—Unnerved by their shooting, apparently by accident, of one man, three payroll bandits fled without the $7,000 payroll of the Liberty Paper Board Company, which they attempted to seize late yesterday.

Paymaster H. L. Williams slammed the payroll window in their faces and ducked under the counter instead of handing over the money.

Andrew Vineberg, 65, watchman at the plant and first man in the payroll line, was shot. Two of the bandits, armed and masked and clad in overalls, had run toward the payroll line and ordered those in it to raise their hands.

To emphasize his order one bandit thrust his revolver against Vineberg's back. A shot was heard and Vineberg, seriously injured, collapsed.

It was then that the bandits advanced to the window and saw the window slam between them and the coveted $7,000 piled inside.

They escaped in their automobile. Police believe they were novices.

HURT FUGITIVE RECAPTURED

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., July 28.—The violence of a prisoner's attempt to escape has resulted in his injury and recapture.

While Sheriff H. Elmer Borland was taking Weamer Zack, 30, to the Allegheny County Workhouse to serve two years for larceny, yesterday, along with two other prisoners, Zack slipped the handcuffs, leaped from the sheriff's car, rolled down a steep embankment and narrowly escaped being killed in landing against a moving freight train.

He was hurled against the bank, landed on rocks, lay dazed for a moment, then boarded a northbound train which hauled him to Barking, near here, before being discovered and ordered off.

He then took refuge in a river camper's shack until found by a government engineer. Zack complained of pains in his back and chest. When he was taken to a hospital, authorities communicated with Indiana county officials and arranged Zack's return.

RELATIVES TO SEARCH FLORIDA FOR KIN

STEUBENVILLE, O., July 28.—Relatives of Mrs. Helen Simmons Booth, entangled in the murder of her grandfather, G. W. Simmons, 83, at Lake City, Fla., today expressed fear for her safety.

At the same time relatives of her bridegroom, Elzie Booth, 27, retained Prosecutor Roy . Merryman of Jefferson county to go to Florida to care for the interests of the couple who set out on their honeymoon with the aged Simmons. They are skeptical of Lake City reports that Booth was seen beating Simmons on the head with a hammer in an automobile.

Deputy Sheriff W. H. Steinbecker has arrived here from Lake City to investigate the Ohio elements of the case and to check up on reports that Simmons had had several thousand dollars in Steubenville and Bellaire banks.

Reports received here are that police have found no trace at all of the Booths, whose tourist camp quarters at Lake City were found deserted after the discovery of Simmons' body.

Booths' relatives say he enlisted in the Army at the age of 16 and was shell-shocked in France.

INQUEST TODAY

LAKE CITY, Fla., July 28.—A coroner's jury will meet today to return a verdict in the death of G. W. Simmons, aged Steubenville (O.), man, who was found dead with his skull crushed in a roadside drainage ditch early Wednesday.

Simmons' body was sent to Steubenville yesterday.

The jury already has heard witnesses who said they saw E. L. Booth, husband of the dead man's granddaughter, standing on the running board of the machine, striking Simmons over the head while Mrs. Booth drove the machine along a highway near here the night before the body was found.

That was the last time the Booths have been reported seen, and the only trace of them was finding of their blood-stained automobile in Jacksonville the next day. Police there are holding the machine.

TWO SLAYERS AMONG SIX WHO FLED ASYLUM FIRE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 28.—(INS.)—All but six of the 1,272 inmates of the State Hospital for the Insane, freed late Thursday night when fire destroyed the main building, have been recaptured, police announce.

Two of those still free are criminally insane and regarded as dangerous. They are Jess MacPherson and Sam Kemper, both murderers.

Once free, and frightened by the roaring flames, about three hundred of the inmates, scantily-clad, dashed off in all directions in the pouring rain. The 900 other patients huddled together and made no effort to escape.

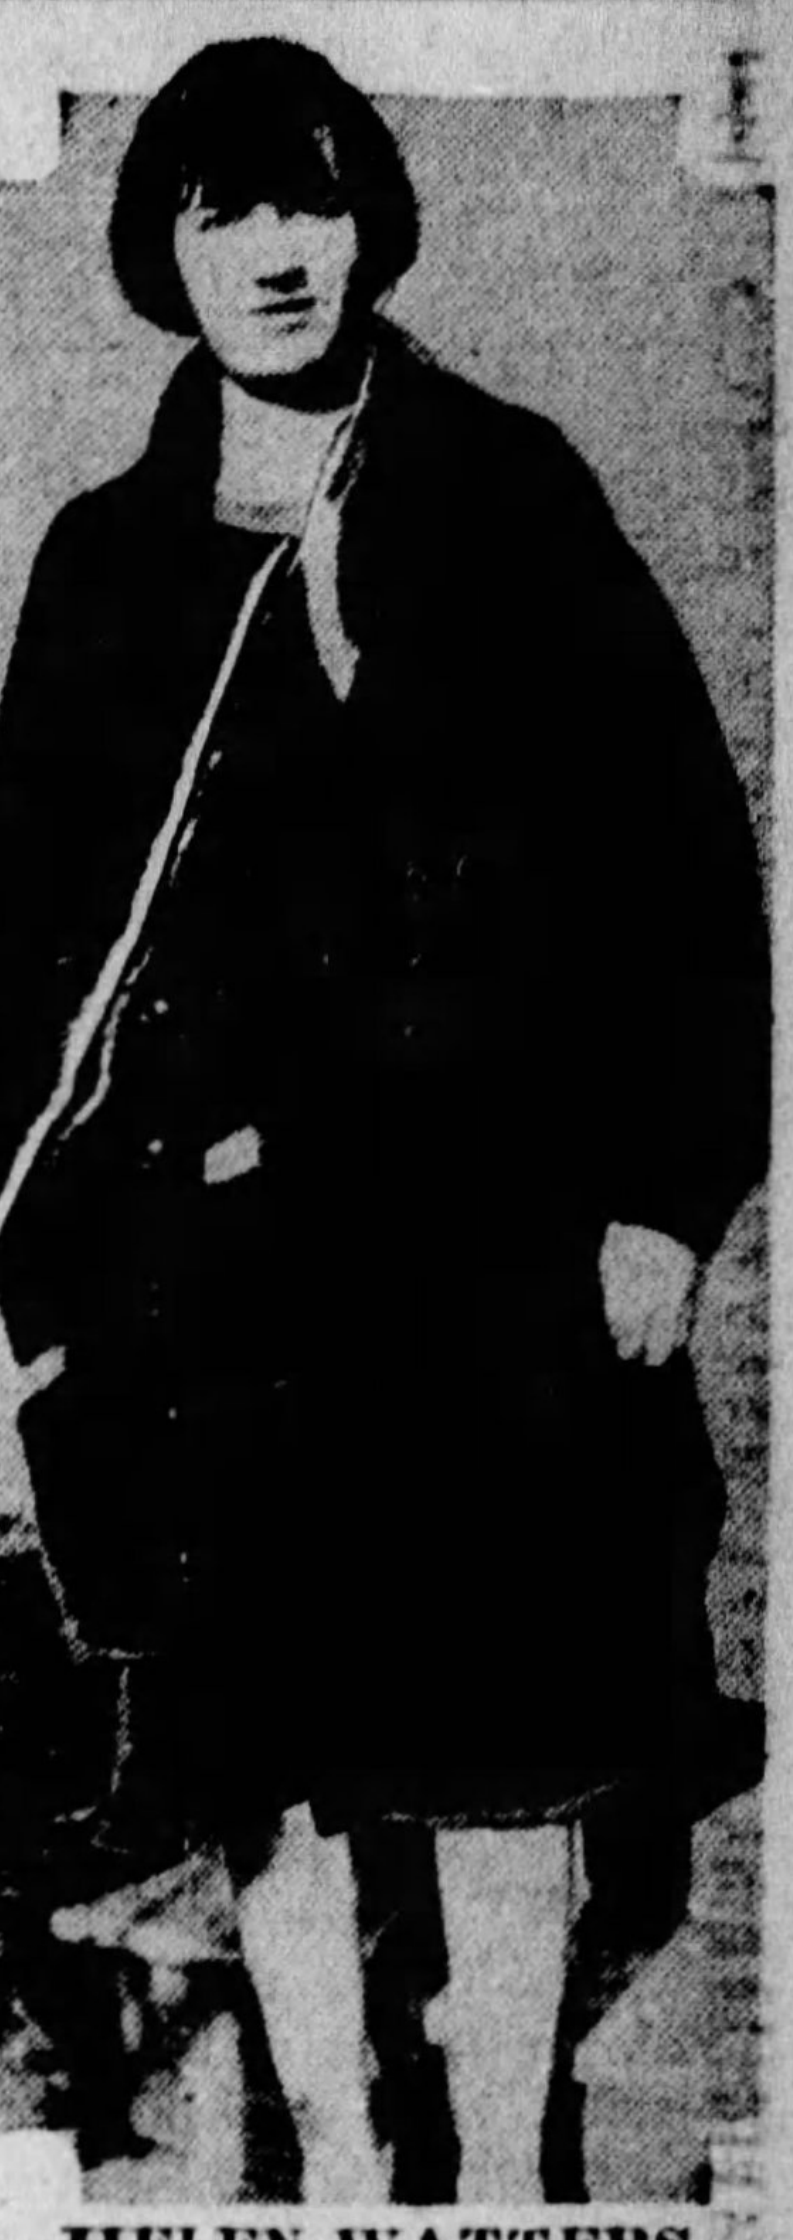
Residents assisted guards, police and firemen in rounding up the wanderers.

The fire caused a loss estimated at $250,000. One fireman was slightly hurt when struck on the head by a falling brick.

In the darkness guards with lanterns and torches, aided by volunteers, rounded up the inmates.

An investigation of the cause of the fire was begun immediately.

Swimming?



HELEN WATTERS

Helen Watters, 17, of 142 Bronx avenue, West View, is being sought by Missing Persons' Bureau. The girl left home to go swimming. She has dark bobbed hair and dark eyes and was wearing a pink linen dress when she left, police say.

HURLS LAD FROM CAR

Beaten and thrown from an automobile, Ted Harris, 18, of Wilkes-Barre, was found on the Fern Hollow Bridge early today by a motorist, who took him to Columbia Hospital.

Harris said he arrived at the Pennsylvania station from Columbus last night. He was on his way to Wilkes-Barre, he said, but had only $5. He hired a machine to take him beyond the city limits on the William Penn highway so he could "hitch-hike" back home, he said, and the hacker held him up, slugging him because he had no money.

Harris has a fractured arm and three fractured ribs, besides bruises and lacerations.

Kellogg To Sail Aug. 18

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(INS.)—Secretary of State Kellogg will sail from New York on August 18 for France to participate in the signing, on August 27, in Paris, of the American outlawry of war treaty. He has engaged passage on the steamer Isle De France.

His plans call for a stay in Paris of only two or three days.

Mrs. Kellogg may accompany him.

Kellogg declared he has no business in Paris other than in connection with the treaty and emphatically added he would not discuss Rhineland occupation, foreign debts or the reparations questions with the German or other European foreign ministers.

BERLIN, July 28.—(AP.)—It was officially stated yesterday that Foreign Minister Stresemann has not yet received any invitation from Minister Briand of France to visit Paris to sign the Kellogg anti-war pact.

The statement was issued in response to questions whether the German foreign minister was planning to visit Paris late in August when the treaty will be signed.

The Constant Flame

All Blood Is the Same Color; Emily and Kent Are Happy in Their Love

BEFORE he went away he dropped into the shop sometimes, talking to her in his winsome, happy manner, even teasing her a bit as he did in the old days. Sometimes he asked her to drive and to dine at the Yacht Club, but she refused. Association, she felt, could lead only to pain for her. Harder to forget if she saw him often.

It was after one of his calls that Frances said a peculiar thing. "Remember you're one of the owners here, my dear. Your income from the shop—it's sizeable, now, isn't it?—will grow.

"Have you ever thought if you wished to stop work that income might do for your mother very nicely? It will go on, you know."

"But why should I stop work, dear Frances?"

"Well," smiling, "you might wish to get married."

"The idea!"

But the sweet face was red and when Kent came the next time she tried to be distant. She didn't see him again before he left.

And now it was almost autumn and Emily was beginning to think that soon she must shake off the inertia whcih held her so graciously. Plan something in the way of progress for herself. The long, long trail—she would tramp that head up and shoulders back. It was no part of her instinct to grow drab.

High resolution uplifted and comforted her; she felt a new exuberance. Walking up the hill that evening she sang a little; even when she saw in the society column that Kent had come home she was not shaken. She felt strong enough to set aside her love for him.

She was still planning, alone in the porch swing, when the moon rose. A great, burnished disc above the Tarrytown hills spreading an orange glow in the sky, drawing a path of light on the river. It powdered the garden white, made dark, mysterious shapes of the evergreens. She thrilled to the enchantment of it.

And thought of Kent. A vivid, joyous vision came to her of the night under the pergola; a night like this when he had leaned toward her and said she was the prettiest girl in Lyall. Prettiest and sweetest, he had said. So fine, so dear, he was. . . .

Almost she could hear him singing again the magic song:

"Oh, moon of my delight that knows no wane,
The moon of heaven is rising once again—"

Vibrant and soft his voice, very tender; it filled her with an overpowering sense of beauty. She tried to put it from her mind but the song went on:

"How oft hereafter rising shall she look
Through this same garden, and for me in vain!"

She knew then that it wasn't fancy. A tall figure was coming down the lane, head back, face to the stars; a tall boy, singing as he walked.

Beautiful—oh, infinitely beautifull that he should come to her like this. So natural it seemed—the pause at the gate, the quick step on the walk. His nearness, his dearness beside her there.

"Emily! Little white flower—dearest, dearest—" His arms about her, lips on her hair, her eyes—the kiss that swept her as with ecstatic, soaring music.

She could not speak, only think, "This is love; this is Kent. Meeting me at the Lily Lock—oh—"

"You do love me, Emily? Enough? I've wanted you so! I didn't know what it was. I'll never let you go again. Sweetest and dearest, do you love me?"

"You know, Kent."

"We won't wait? Now I've got you—be married right away?"

But that brought her back to every day things; she was afraid. "How can we? Your father and mother—"

"They'll love you. I've talked to dad; want to hear what he said? 'I hope she'll consent to come into the family. We need a little thoroughbred like her.'"

"Kent! But I'm just a nobody. Father a factory-hand. And you!"

He laughed in a pleased way. "I'll tell you something if you'll never breathe to mother you know. My great-grandfather was a factory-hand. What do you think of that? Wore a red flannel shirt and put stocking-feet on the table and brought his sons up to fight and fear God. Does that even it up?"

"Why—"

"You speak about blue-blood, but all blood is the same color, Emily. We won't talk of this again. And how about next week? Thursday, say, or maybe Tuesday?"

She looked out over the river. The radiance of the moon fell upon two ships, white and slender, very graceful in the path of light. They were anchored side by side.

"Sweetheart—"

"Yes, Kent," she, said.

THE END.

Horoscopes

Sunday, July 29

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds testimonies of conditions favoring mystical and spiritual activities and those things pertaining to higher phases of artistic production, poetry, music, etc., otherwise matters may lag or disappoint.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of satisfying conditions in matters involving subtlety, strategy or with secret or mystical orders or combines. Otherwise the affairs may be slow or delayed.

A child born on this day may have qualities fitting it for diplomacy, conspiracy or for success through tact or subtlety rather than open methods.

Every happening in the world today was seen and predicted centuries ago by those who had learned wisdom.—BROWNELL.

Monday, July 30

MONDAY'S astrological map shows conditions more or less conflicting, but of epochal importance. While there is presage of a radical change holding distinct benefits, yet there is a possibility of this move, if not properly managed carrying some anxieties or combinations. The financial outlook appears strong but impetuosity or imprudence may cloud the best advantages.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of important moves with excellent prospect for financial gain and good position, but these may be put in jeopardy by impetuosity, contention or intrigue.

A child born on this day may be talented and original in many directions and may also be ambitious and industrious, but it may defeat itself by intrigue or imprudence.

The law of periodicity shows the same conditions occurring on earth with recurring cycles of influence.—LOUISE BROMWELL.

EVENING CLOTHES

One Dresses to Meet Romance. The Other to Dream of It.

Drawn by Dorothy Flack

OLD Mister-Man-in-the-Moon must have a lot of quiet laughs to himself. And lots of times I can imagine him heaving a sigh and wiping a furtive tear when he glances down the beams which he sends earthward and sees the effects which his silvery light has on us mortals

Here he sees one lovely maiden all dressed up in gorgeous finery; jewels sparkling, tiny feet keeping time to the beat and rhythm of the music as she sways through the dizzy mazes of an intricate dance; perfectly groomed, carefully coiffed, eyes bright with the thrill and lure of the search for Romance. To her evening clothes mean the bait with which she will eventually capture the will-o'-the-wisp Romance.

Then he peeps through the softly curtained window of a vine-covered cottage and sees there the girl whose eyes are round with the wonder of everything, who glories in the light which he sends to her and watches the flicker of the shadows and peoples the night with her dreams. She, too, is in evening dress, only she's not flaunting her charms for all who pass to see. She's dreaming of the Romance which is to come seeking her.

Which do you think will win? Eventually both, but in oh, so different a way. One romance will be as will-o'-the-wisp as the searcher; the other as steadfast and holy as the dreamer. But each to her taste, my dears. After all, Romance is Romance always, the only difference being in each one's conception of it.

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

The Producer Is All Set to Observe the Drama Unfold

"AS for Phil's third reason for attaching himself to Mother Graham for the day," Lillian went on, "it's going to give him a chance to watch the gambols of that most interesting quartet of youngsters, Mary Harrison, Eleanor Lincoln, Noel Veritzen and young Mr. Jackson. Why he's so interested in their emotional reactions to each other, I can't fathom—it's the greatest puzzle of this whole affair of which Eleanor Lincoln is the center—but he is and therefore the elaborate camouflage , for the plain and fancy sleuthing on his part. Well! I'm going to be old Tabby at the rat hole, my self in my odd moments. Look! You have to slip it to Phil for artistry in carrying out his plans. He always can be depended on to brown the toast on both sides."

My eyes followed hers, and saw Otto, Mr. Veritzen's chauffeur, unfolding a large and comfortable deck chair and a beach umbrella for Mother Graham's use.

Dicky, with Junior on his shoulders, emerged from the men's bath house and plunged into the water, but I saw him stop short for a second at the sight of Mr. Veritzen gallantly placing Mother Graham in the chair with the big gaily-colored umbrella shading her from the sun, and knew that he had a complete picture of the scene resentfully imprinted upon his mind.

Young Mr. Jackson came out next and with a look around—which it was easy to guess was in search of Mary—walked down the beach toward us. But it was Eleanor who first emerged from the women's pavilion and ran lightly toward the beach. At its edge she stopped, looked across the bay to the oddly shaped cliffs beyond their edges like glittering serried bayonet points in the sunlight, and then she turned impulsively to young Mr. Jackson, and spoke a few rapid words in a language unknown to me. But I could distinguish the one word, "Georges!" spoken in the manner of a salutation.

He spoke but one word in answer, so low that I could not distinguish it. As she heard it, her hand flew up to her lips with the frightened gesture of a child who has forgotten some prohibition laid upon it, and she turned toward Lillian and me quickly. But we had averted our eyes, though beneath my lashes I could see the frightened look she sent toward us, and the relief which appeared upon her face when she saw that we were not looking at her.

The next second they were both in the water wading out toward the depth which would enable them to swim.

"They were both so flustered that they never thought to wait for Mary and Noel. And now that little matter is getting old Phil's goat. Watch Mary carefully when she comes out, and I'll keep my eyes trained on Phil. I suppose you realize what that little colloquy just now signified?"

"It's what we decided before, isn't it," I answered, "that Eleanor Lincoln and young Mr. Jackson are old acquaintances? This view evidently reminded her of one they had seen before, and she called out to him concerning it before she remembered that they were supposed to be strangers."

"Correct, or Sherlockia!" she said, while I thought guiltily of the confidence which young Mr. Jackson had given me, and which I had not revealed to Lillian because of my promise to the young man. "Here comes Mary now. Train your eyes that way."

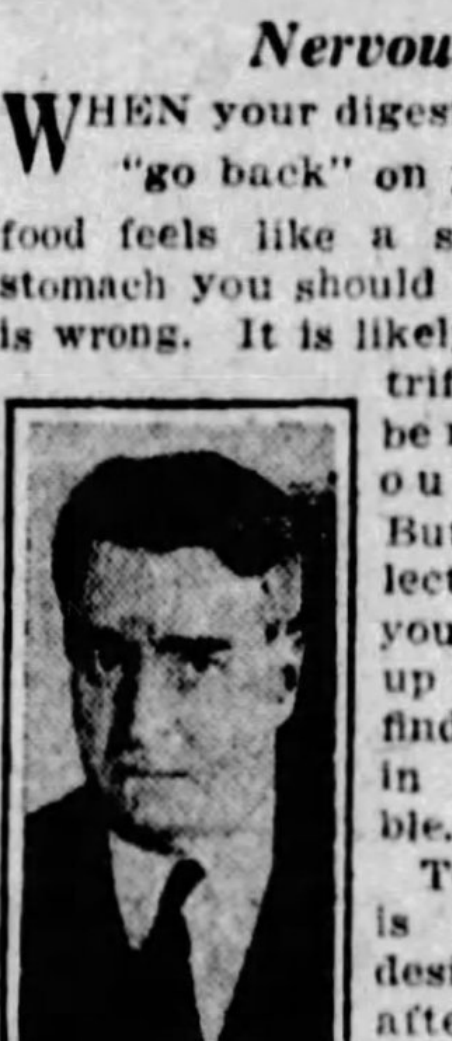
HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland, M.D.

U.S. Senator From New York

Nervous Dyspepsia Requires Attention

WHEN your digestion begins to "go back" on you and your food feels like a stone in your stomach you should find out what is wrong. It is likely the cause is trifling and can be removed without difficulty. But if you neglect the condition you may wake up some day to find out you are in serious trouble.



DR. COPELAND

To be hungry is natural and desirable. But after eating heartily, to have gnawing or aching pains in the stomach within an hour or two, or to have such pains an hour or two before meal-time, is a bad sign.

Nausea in the morning, after eating, or, for that matter, at any time of day, is a symptom which should not be disregarded. Belching of gas, gulping up of food and vomiting give evidence of a disability worthy of your attention.

Indigestion and all the symptoms I have suggested are grouped under the common title—"dyspepsia." This is a term which means little more now than to indicate a lot of symptoms relating to the stomach. It was formerly used as the name of a disease. Today, doctors recognize that these common symptoms may be sifted, and with the aid of the X-ray and various laboratory tests, the exact disturbance may be located and defined.

Ulcer of the stomach causes pain, nausea, vomiting and the familiar chain of dyspepsia symptoms. Disease of the kidneys may have these symptoms. Cancer of the stomach is another of the serious diseases which may upset digestion and produce pronounced symptoms of dyspepsia.

These three conditions—ulcer, Bright's disease and cancer—are capable of discovery by the careful tests I have suggested. It is early recognition and early treatment that will make it possible to apply satisfactory methods of treatment.

There is another form of dyspepsia, which is due to anemia, overwork, habitual loss of sleep or nervous exhaustion. This type is usually called "nervous dyspepsia," because it seems to be the effect of a failure of function in the nerve supply of the stomach, its muscular walls and lining membrane.

It is useless to attempt a cure of nervous dyspepsia by taking soda tablets or other drugs intended to neutralize the excessive acidity of the stomach contents. Such treatment will give temporary relief, but of course, the underlying trouble cannot be removed until the ultimate causes have been reached.

Before going to your doctor to worry him with your troubles, give yourself and your habits a careful survey. Everybody should know enough about foods, beverages and the simple rules of personal hygiene to discover where the fault is in the manner of living

Sayings of Mrs. Solomon

By HELEN ROWLAND

WHEN A MAN'S IN LOVE

MY DAUGHTER, when a woman is deceived in love, it is because she hath deceived herself.

* * *

For, beauty may be simulated, and wisdom may be assumed; but the signs of True Love can no more be hidden than the symptoms of hay-fever.

* * *

Verily, the tongue of a True Lover waggeth not, but stumbleth and obstructeth his speech. It forgetteth its "line" and loseth its glibness.

HELEN ROWLAND

The feet of a True Lover rests not, neither do they wander, but race back and forth as a shuttle upon a beaten path; and when he is not beside thee, his is always upon his WAY.

* * *

The heart of a True Lover misseth like unto a disordered engine. It is never serene and full of gayety.

* * *

The eyes of a True Lover close not, neither do they rove—but remain fixed upon ONE image, and can "see" no other woman.

* * *

The temper of a True Lover remaineth smoother than a politician's campaign talk. His patience is not strained by long hours of waiting. His sweetness and forbearance are inexhaustible.

* * *

The charity of a True Lover covereth a multitude of caprices and short-comings. He perceiveth not the flaws in thy make-up; and unto him a freckled nose is an added charm and a blemish is a beauty spot.

* * *

The nose of a True Lover delighteth in scented powders and sachets, and is not meticulous concerning the BRAND of thy perfume—for it is all incense and sweetness in his nostrils. But a man that is not in love shuddereth at patchouli and is sickened by the Oriental stuff.

The shoulders of a True Lover shrink not from rice powder and rouge and tears and beauty-creams; he rejoiceth to be a "marked man," when thy Fleur D'Amour clingeth to his coat-lapel. But a philanderer is more cautious, and brusheth away the "evidence."

* * *

The knees of a True Lover are never fatigued, and the crease in his trousers concerneth not his soul. For, while the Love Fever lasteth his vanity is forgotten, and the opinion of the world is emptiness, and the admiration of other women of no moment.

* * *

Verily, verily, the diagnosis of love is a simple thing, and its symptoms easier to read than an electric sign.

* * *

Wherefore, then, doth any woman deceive herself, saying, "I cannot TELL whether or not this man loveth me; for he is reticent, and his words reveal nothing!"

* * *

For in their lighter moods, men may differ one from the other; but under the spell of the Love Fever, all men are as one man—and that one as window-glass! SELAH.

FOR THE LOVELORN

J. J.

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a constant reader of your column. Generally your advice is always good. I am coming to you for some of your advice because I know you can help me out.

I am very popular with three girls in my town and I see them very often. We are all good chums, but recently two of them have acted differently than they generally do. These two girls are sisters and have told me that they liked me. I liked one very much, in fact, loved her. One night while I was out with her and another fellow with her sister, she told me that another fellow had asked her to go steady with him. Do you think that she would go with this fellow if she really cared for me as much as she said she does? I don't want her to go with him, because it will be for her own good. She says that I will forget soon, but I cannot and I told her so. How can I make her agree with me about not going with this steady fellow. If she doesn't agree how can I win her back? I correspond with her often. I told her that we would have to quit writing to each other, but she insists that we should continue writing. Do you think it would be better to stop this writing?

I will thank you very much for your advice. I will be watching for your answer in the paper. It won't be long till I'll be back for some more advice.

J. J.

You are not engaged, so you cannot object to her having other friends. She may be trying to make you a little jealous about this boy, though. Keep on with your friendship with her.

Friends

DEAR MISS GALE:

We are two girls who would like to know how to gain more friends of both sexes. Can you help us on this problem? It seems to us that the good-looking girls have more friends than the others, whether they are nicer or not. Is this really so? We both hate smoking, drinking, petting and kissing. Do you think that this will help us any in adding links to out chain of friends? Wishing you all the success in the world we are

FRIENDS.

Beauty attracts but it doesn't hold, my dear. The pretty girl may have a superficial sort of popularity even though she may be unpleasant, but she has few real friends. Keep your high standards and be pleasant and friendly, and you will have plenty of friends.

Wondering

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been reading your column for some time. I have never written to you before. Here is my problem: I know quite a few boys, but they only speak to me. I have had parties and things like that and they come and have a good time. Here they pay a little attention to me, but not as much as they do other girls. They come to my home and my girl friends and I have nice times with them. But my mother does not approve of this. What shall I do?

WONDERING.

Perhaps your mother thinks you are too young to go out with boys.

ORDERS ARREST IN MUNICIPAL GARAGE THEFTS

TIRE STEALING LAID TO CITY EMPLOYE

Mayor Charles H. Kline has ordered the arrest of Joseph Goney, an employe of the city garage, who is said to have admitted taking and selling tires belonging to the city.

His order was issued after receiving a report of the affair yesterday from W. H. Monahan, superintendent of the garage, who reported that 38 tires were taken and 19 recovered, leaving a net loss to the city of $156.25.

"I feel sorry for the man, but there was nothing for me to do but instruct Monahan to have him arrested," said the Mayor.

Goneys resignation was demanded by Monahan on July 9, shortly after the latter had been informed by the Department of Supplies that tires belonging to the city were being disposed of privately.

BUICK OFFERS NEW MODELS

Buick today is presenting its latest creations, the Silver Anniversary models, in celebration of its twenty-fifth birthday.

From the time the doors of the Buick Motor Company, Baum boulevard, and its associated dealers opened at 9 o'clock this morning, large crowds of visitors have been passing among the exhibits. And there is much to see, with 18 models in the new line of motor cars. The exhibits also will be open tonight and tomorrow.

Outstanding among the impressions created by the Silver Anniversary Buick is this: that Buick and Fisher style engineers have cut loose from all precedent in working out the line and color treatment for the new car which they introduce this week.

HOPWOOD LEAVES MILLION TO MOTHER AND SCHOOL

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—The chief beneficiaries of the will of James Avery Hopwood, playwright, filed for probate yesterday and which disposes of an estate of approximately $1,000,000, are his mother and the University of Michigan. Hopwood was drowned on July 1 in France.

Hopwood's mother gets one-fourth of the residuary estate outright and the other three-fourths in trust. At her death one-fifth of the trust goes in another trust to the University of Michigan, the income to be distributed among students who excel in dramatic and fiction writing. The awards are to be known as the Avery Hopwood and Jule Hopwood prizes. Jule is the first name of Hopwood's mother.

"It is especially desired," the will reads, "that students shall not be confined to academic subjects but shall be allowed the widest possible latitude. The new, the unusual and the radical shall be especially encouraged."

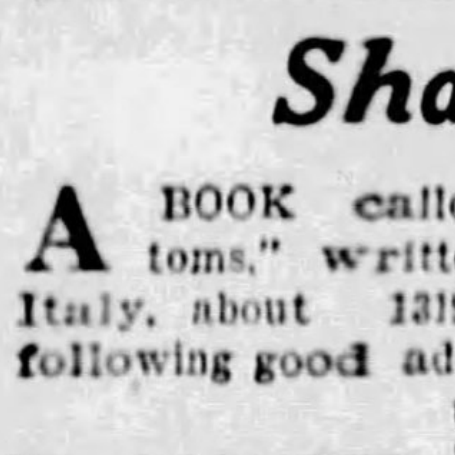
HOW TO BE Beautiful

by Maria Jeritza

Shapely Lower Limbs



MARIA JERITZA

A BOOK called "Good Customs," written in Florence, Italy, about 1319, contains the following good advice on bringing up daughters: "Do not let them grow too fat and teach them to perform all the work of the household."

So it is evident that the art of reducing is not new. The slenderness of the maidens of fourteenth century paintings was doubtless carefully cultivated.

A symmetrical body, and most especially symmetrical legs, are not only desirable, but actually necessary in order to look presentable in modern styles. In fact, in this day of uniform slip-on frocks, the only distinction and touch of elegance may be said to consist in having a lovely, graceful supple body under the loose, form-revealing frock. Pretty legs and ankles have come into their own.

Legs are becoming an increasingly important factor of beauty. [illegible]ot only are bare legs in evidence [illegible] bathing beaches, but the short [illegible]ks worn for tennis and golf [illegible] season roll back just above [illegible]nkles, frankly revealing bare [illegible] knees and calves. We [illegible]old by a famous illustrator [illegible]as made a study of flapper [illegible] that the girl of 1930 will [illegible]ely free of clothes so far [illegible] arms and legs are con[illegible]ngs considered, it be[illegible]very woman, old and [illegible] cultivate the beauty [illegible] of her lower limbs. [illegible] is to be done? In [illegible]. Exercises such as [illegible] will help tremendously in bringing limber, slender grace to your legs.

Stand straight before a flat-bottomed chair. Step onto the chair, then off again, at least 10 times with each foot. This is excellent for the calf and thigh muscles. If you are trying to reduce practice the exercise rapidly, precisely, 10 times morning and evening with each foot. In case you wish to take on weight, go through the movements more slowly and afterward lie down 15 minutes.

Bend to touch the floor with both hands without bending your knees, then try to walk about the floor in this fashion. This exercise is difficult, but it gives the muscles of your trunk and limbs a fine stretch.

Doubtless you will wish to rid yourself of superfluous hairs on your legs, to look well in chiffon stockings or else sans stockings. I suggest for this purpose a mild cream depilatory, which should be applied about once in three weeks. Always rub cold cream in your limbs after removing the hairs.

Swimming, jumping the rope and walking are exercises par excellence for symmetry of the lower limbs. If active exercise seems to cause the muscles of your legs to grow lean and conspicuous, rub in warm, scented olive oil after exercising.

In case all the exercising in the world will not make your legs as symmetrical as you would wish, permit me to suggest that the uneven hem line is most kind to large calves and ankles. Silk stockings on the beach, nicely adjusted, in a dark color, with a dark bathing suit will make slightly-bowed legs or knock knees less noticeable. Well-groomed and shod feet and legs, made supple and graceful by systematic exercise, complete the chic and beauty of a summer costume.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

HIGH HEEL SLIPPERS

By EMILY BURTON.

MAMIE DRAKE worked at the notion counter in a department store. Carl Lennox was in the shoe department on the same floor of the same store.

Mamie had never seen many handsome men, for she had not lived that long, but she felt sure that Cort Lennox was the best-looking man in the world.

"You needn't be casting your eyes toward that Lennox person," said wise little Sadie Maine. "He is deaf, dumb and blind as far as girls are concerned. They say he hates women."

So Mamie kept her eyes away from the shoe department until the arrival of the new summer footwear. It was a pair of blonde, kid slippers with high French heels that caught her attention and held it. That particular pair of slippers filled her with unspeakable bliss and unbearable longing. They wre marked $13.75.

Now Mamie earned exactly $15 a week and she gave her mother $8 of that, which left her $7 for clothes, car fare, lunch and amusement.

"I'll walk to work and bring lunch from home for two weeks. Then I can buy those slippers," she decided.

On Wednesday of the second week of her self-denial, a notice was sent around the store saying that the employers' picnic would be given on Saturday afternoon.

"I'll have my high-heel slippers to wear to the picnic," Mamie whispered to Sadie Maine.

"If you like, I'll lend you my lace dress. I'll wear my new silk," answered generous Sadie.

Mamie was delighted with the idea of wearing the lace dress and said so. To herself she said:

"Maybe Cort Lennox will notice me if he sees me dolled."

As she went out at noon she stopped at the shoe department and asked Lennox to show her some blonde, kid slippers with high heels. She tried to appear casual and unconcerned, but her eyes were sparkling.

He smiled at her eager face and talked in a friendly fashion, while she tried on the shoes and walked up and down in front of the mirror.

"They pay us off Friday night and I'll get them Saturday," she told him.

"She's a sweet kid," he said to himself as he put the high heel slippers away.

Mamie clutched her pay envelope in her hand as she hurried homeward 6 o'clock on Friday. "Fourteen dollars all my own!" she exulted. "Tomorrow I'll walk out of Bromberg's with new shoes on my feet."

When Mamie reached home, she saw a big truck in the front of the door. Her mother was standing in the doorway, looking embarrassed and distressed.

"I just can't pay for it now," Mamie heard her say.

"Well, you ordered this coal delivered in August," answered the driver in a gruff voice. "And here it is."

"What is it, mamma?" asked the girl running up the steps.

"I ordered coal in the summer, because it is cheaper. Now it has come and there's no money to pay for it. I don't know when I will have it either," the mother added and her chin trembled. "Looks like I just can't make ends meet to save my life."

"How much is it?" Mamie asked, a wave of despair sweeping over her soul.

"Fourteen dollars," was the answer.

"I'll pay it," the girl stated.

A sad little Mamie went back to the notion counter the next day. Sadie had brought the lace dress, which Mamie was to don that afternoon.

"I can't wear that dress with these old sport shoes," Mamie told her friend. Then she had to explain about the coal that took her precious savings.

"I wouldn't mind it so much," she added, "but Cort Lennox will find out that I can't even buy a pair of shoes. And I told him that I would get them today."

"Just say nothing about it," Sadie advised. "He will be too busy to think of it, and you can get them in two weeks more."

At 1 o'clock Mamie scrambled into the car with the hilarious crowd and rode 10 miles to the grove where the picnic was held. She wore a simple muslin frock and the low heel shoes which she despised. But she refused to let that spoil her pleasure. Picnics were rare occasions in her young life, and she proposed to enjoy one.

It was after supper when Lennox dropped down on the beside Mamie.

"You remind me of the back home," he said. "I'd gotten that there were any little country lassies left in world."

Mamie stared at him in aston ment. Was he making fun of No, his tone was too kind an eyes were too bright for that of cruelty.

"You seem different from rest of 'em in the store," he tinued.

"How?" she asked.

"Well, you strike me as b the sort of girl who has a home—with a mother in it. T the way you are dressed, fo stance. I bet your mother m that little frock you have on."

"She did," answered Mamie little bewildered.

"And you are not teeter around on high heels out her the country. You wore s shoes, sensible, correct."

"I had to," laughed Mamie.

"I hate to see girls loaded d with gew-gaws and make-be finery," Lennox continued. course it's their own business. I just like them better natu Then he added apologetica "You know I come from the co try and I always will be a co tryman."

"I love the country," Mamie.

Lennox stayed with Mamie rest of the evening. He sat be her as they rode back to town he told her goodnight on her door-step.

"See you Monday morning, said as they left. And there a light in his eyes and a te ness in his voice which no ever mistakes.

SYNOPSIS.—Beware, Sir Harry Doncaster, of Miss ——. Remember, you have a wife and child.

THE WEAKER VESSEL

"ELSIE DE VAUX jealous! Pshaw, how foolish!" said Harry to himself, as he stepped briskly past his wife, to peer at himself in the hall glass.

"You are not well, Harry!" said Elsie, his wife, as she marked his heightened color; "you've been annoyed at business, I take it."

"Not a bit," said he, patting her on the cheek, and tossing up his child. "Not a bit, and now let's have dinner; for I have a business engagement this afternoon at four."

Sir Harry, you are thinking of Miss ——; think twice before you take this step.

"My dear, I'm all-of-a-BIB-and-TUCKer at this point—I mean I'm POSitively GURgitating with GLEE, no less, because I mean I had MORE darn FUN with those odd souls NOIsy and PHWHEN just now. HONestly, my dear, it was SIMply SCREAMing because I brought up the SUBject of this BURNing kiss of true LOVE that ARab was fluently raving on about the other day to me, my dear, and I kind of INnocently began WONdering to them how a REALly and TRUly kiss of love FEELS, my dear, whereupon they BOTH preceeded to get TERribly exCITed, my dear, and I could see that something was about to transPIRE of an afFECtionate NAture, so I kind of played UP to the TENder MOOD I had craftily inDUCED in both pipsqueaks and when PHWHEN PASsionately inquired if I ACtually wanted to know what a kiss of true love felt like I BREATHED a fervent 'Oh, YES!' kind of clasping my HANDS in a SUPpliant and subMISsive GESture, whereupon BOTH snuggle-puppies advanced upon me with AM'rous inTENtions but, my dear, JUST as their LIPS were about to FIRMly PLANT themselves on MINE, my dear, I DUCKED gracefully and they NECKED each OTHer—can you BEAR it, my dear? HONestly, I thought I'd have hysTERics because I mean they were BOTH practicably ready to ROLL over and BUTter themselves with disMAY, do you know what I mean?"

Trolley Traffic Decreases And Motor Deaths Grow

Council has received the report of the Traction Conference Board relative to the curtailment of service, complaints about which James F. Malone, president of Council, said he had received from patrons. At that time the Pittsburgh Railways Company announced that the service was in proportion to receipts, which, it stated, had declined. That explanation now is supported by the Traction Conference Board, which states the company is following a wise economic plan in shaping its operating expenses to the pattern of its income. The service is pronounced good and adequate under the circumstances.

Various reasons are assigned for the falling off of street car traffic, such as unemployment, bus transportation and the use of other motor vehicles, which is constantly increasing. All of which is just another indication of changing conditions. Many of us prefer to spend a quarter to ride in a bus rather than spending eight and one-third cents to ride in a street car. Many of us spend more than carfare for gasoline alone in order to get into town and then pay parking charges on top of that.

And that isn't all we pay. We pay thousands of dollars for funerals. We pay lives—good, useful, human lives. Just recently there was erected on Bigelow boulevard a memorial to the hundreds who were killed in traffic last year. On it was a legend that 58 had been killed in traffic this year. A few weeks passed and that total had been changed to 75. Friday it was changed again and the figures hung up announced a total of 94 deaths, an increase of 36 between June 1 and July 23, a terrible record.

Part of that death toll is paid because we jam the streets with traffic. But even with all that risk the menace to life could be reduced through carefulness. Pedestrians continue to be careless and drivers continue to be reckless. They weave in and out of line, "hogging" places that belong to others who have to make way for them or suffer damage. They pass other cars on curves and try to "beat" traffic light. They kill.

The automobile is an actual necessity of modern life and every family ought to have one. But for many families there is no necessity of using their cars as much as they do. The street car is the vehicle of the masses and they make a big and expensive mistake in deserting it. There is a connection between the decline of street car traffic and the increase in motor casualties.

Trader Horn Goes Home

And Has a Poor Opinion of Some Modern Young Men.

TRADER HORN, BACK FROM AFRICA, LOOKING OVER HIS GATE AT ENGLAND.

Above you see that strange old Britisher, Trader Horn, well on in the seventies, who passed years among savages in Africa. He discovered, with the help of an intelligent woman, who "took down," or rather WROTE his book, the things he had seen and done that interested the world.

In his old age one book and the reputation it made for him gave him comfort and financial ease that he had not been able to gain in the struggles of youth, his fights with savages and wild animals.

THINKING is the most profitable occupation.

Horn met every kind of man and every kind of animal in Africa. Now he leans on his gate, smokes his pipe, sees the world go by and tells what he thinks. He doesn't think much of some young men of today, as he finds them in England—possibly also in America, where he was recently a visitor.

"We've still the Viking blood with us," says he. "The fights across the ocean prove it." But, since he left England for Africa, a worthless youth has cropped up, and he doesn't think much of it. Says he:

> But we've also a-plenty of these little town-bred pavement and cinema idlers—all cheap, waisted suits and swinging canes and cigarets and an eye for the girls. I wonder the girls have any eye for them.
> Too many won't-works, too. England has too big a load to carry to want that sort on her back as well. Drown 'em—like the Evilis up at Sambo Falls drown their old men and women. When they're past usefulness to the community and a burden on their relatives they just heave them off a rock into the rapids. The crocs do the rest. That's Nature—hard and cruel.
> We might reverse that order with justice. Not drown the old 'uns if they've lived and worked faithfully, but reward them with ease in their old age. Drown the young won't-works instead! There wouldn't be any to drown after the first half-dozen had gone over Westminster Bridge!
> I'd make 'em WALK more. Man is not born to sit down all day unless he is old or infirm. Nowadays people sit as they ride to work, sit at work, sit coming home, sit while they watch others play cricket or football or make love on this so-called cinema—sit, sit, always sitting. That's not the way to breed men, the hardy fathers of hardy children. Make 'em walk!
> The war made men of us, but the war killed most of the men it made. That's war's reward to itself. It must devour.

In few words Trader Horn gives you a picture of savage life in Africa, where old women and men, no longer useful, are thrown off a rock into the rapids where the "crocs"—crocodiles—do the rest.

For thousand centuries among savage and barbarous peoples, it has been the custom to kill those too old to be useful. In some cases they were eaten after they were killed.

And the old people took it for granted.

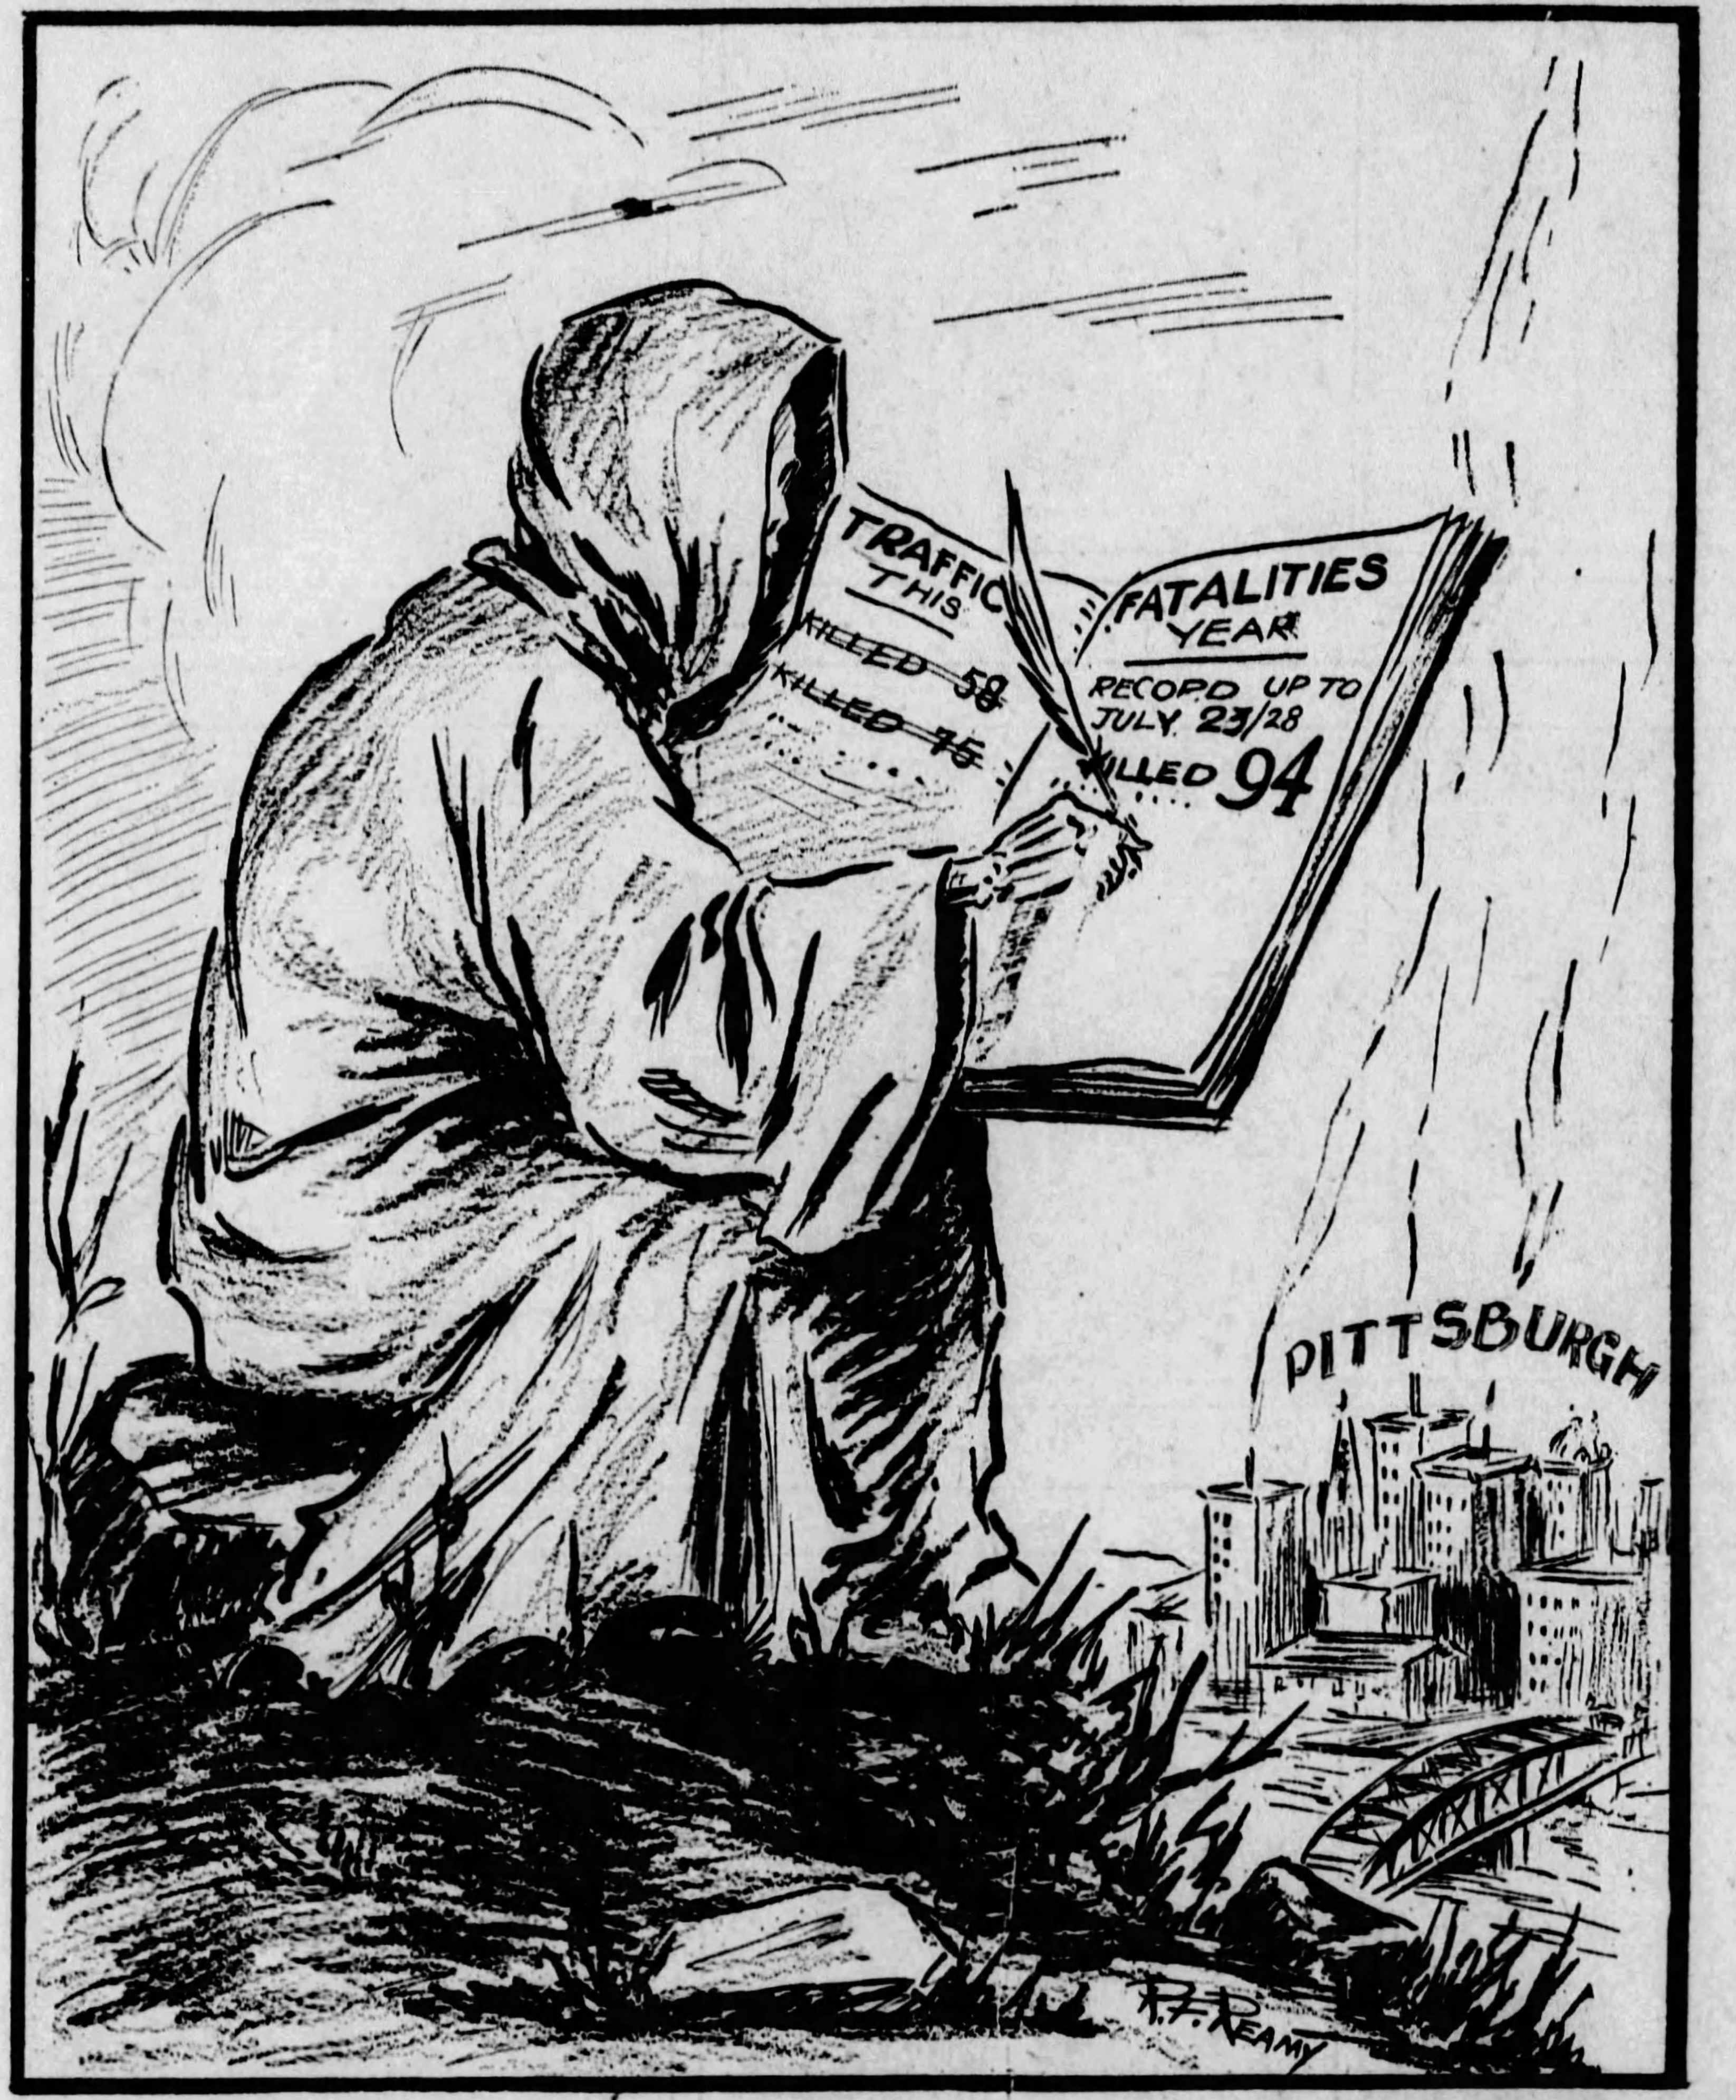
Reclus, in his "Homme et la Terre," "Man and the Earth," shows that widespread brutality.

Eskimos, to this day, in isolated places, put the worn-out old man or woman in an ice hut, with a little food, plug up the entrance to the igloo with a wet cake of ice that freezes solid, then ask no more questions.

The old people take for granted the statement that they are useless and should go. BY FORCE IF NECESSARY.

Perhaps on the whole it was not as brutal as it seems. Many a poor man and woman in our "civilization" can testify that a quick death would be preferable to dragging out the years in a poorhouse, or as a nuisance in the house of an unloving son or daughter.

A Record of Which No One Is Proud



Garrett P. Serviss Says:

John Bunyan

WHAT is the true criterion of literature—technique or thought? The technicians would shut out of the inner circle John Bunyan, whose three-hundredth anniversary is to be celebrated this year, because of the homely, unaffected, "unliterary," style in which he wrote. But they can not obscure the fact that his "Pilgrim's Progress" is one of the world's greatest books. The Phds of literature pass, making hardly a ripple, but Bunyan, the unlettered thinker with the divine gift of sympathetic expression, is a towering rock in the stream of human thought.

There are three supreme books (not mentioning the Bible), that have been the greatest stimulant for youthful minds. These are: (1) "Robinson Crusoe," and its enchanting consort, "Swiss Family Robinson;" (2) the "Arabian Nights," and (3) the "Pilgrim's Progress."

The first two, linked together, make but one appeal, vis. to the spirit of adventure, luring the reader into the wonders of the world of nature among strange countries, oceans and islands lost in the sea.

The second appeals to the mysterious sense of unused power that lurks in the back of the mind of every human being, leading to the instinctive, half-belief of which everybody is at times conscious, that if he could only catch the knack he could be a magician too. See on that point Wells' story of "The Man Who Could Do Miracles."

The third of the great books, the "Pilgrim's Progress," has an entirely different appeal, no less powerful and perhaps more lasting than the others. It is a lure to the religious sentiments, which, despite what self-deluded atheists may say, are implanted in all normal human beings. In writing that wonderful story John Bunyan proved himself to be the "Pied Piper" of Christianity. He blows the bewitching pipes of his fascinating allegory, and the youngest reader follows him, even over the rough stones of theological communings, with never ending eagerness and interest. It is a story to draw children from their plays and their toys—I remember how it drew me to my mother's knee when she read it aloud, and even the footnotes, which she also read, did not obscure the picture in my mind of "Christian" struggling up the hill of the "straight and narrow way" with that terrible burden on his back, or weaken my satisfaction when, at last the burden dropped off, and rolled and rolled, down and down, until it disappeared in the mouth of the Pit. The "Pilgrim's Progress" is the greatest of all allegories. It has had more influence than all the pulpit sermons.

Recall for a moment some of its marvellous scenes: "Christian's" battle with "Apollyon;" the traverse of the "Valley of the Shadow of Death;" the "House Beautiful," and its lovely and pious hostesses: "Vanity Fair," with its shows, its lures, its enticements, its brilliance and its wickedness; the perils of the "Enchanted Ground;" the "Land of Beulah" and the "Delectable Mountains;" the terrible yet triumphant crossing of the dark river, the approach to the city with the gates of pearl and the glimpse of ineffable glory as the Pilgrim passes in. And then, in the second part, the adventures of the Pilgrim's wife and children following his footsteps, visiting the scenes of his trials, battles and escapes, and conversing sweetly with those who had known him on his way; the incomparable guide "Greatheart;" the dungeon of "Giant Despair," and many other most memorable things that crowd the pages of this extraordinary book.

No man ever deserved better than John Bunyan to have his memory enshrined with fresh laurels on the three hundredth anniversary of his birth. He was a better tale-teller than any of the "Canterbury Pilgrims."

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

A Business Man's Day

ARE you offended when you are given little more than a hasty greeting, calling at the office of a friend?

You feel he should give you a little time, show greater evidence of pleasure because of your visit.

Somehow you cannot convince yourself that the feeling of friendship, of which he once gave evidence has not cooled off a bit.

Well, maybe it has.

But more likely he has certain work to get out before the close of the day, work that might keep others overtime if he does not attend to it.

If you have the right slant on your own work you ought to realize that a man in a responsible position has about all he can do during working hours.

No allowance is made for visiting.

If it is done, it means faster work later, or killing the day's schedule.

The small town person has usually the least regard for an appreciation of a busy man's position.

He cannot understand why a few moments of time should interfere appreciably with a day's schedule.

His working hours are less crowded than those of the busy city man.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

The Ghostly Garden

THIS summer noon I saw a garden-plot
And though the sun was bright,
A something strange and lonely in the spot
Hinted of cold and night.

It was a weed-choked and deserted place,
Where no gay songbirds came
To fill its walks with melody and grace
And beauty like a flame.

It was a ghostly garden-plot, where went
Dim shapes from years gone by,
And yet (such was their magic spell) they lent
Their bloom to earth and sky.

Women Executives

WOMEN are making a success as officeholders, said the chairman of the department of American citizenship of the General Federation of Women Clubs at the nineteenth biennial convention in San Antonio, Tex.

Of course they are. No reasoning person could much doubt that they would make a success in executive positions. With centuries of training in the toughest kind of jobs—as wives—women have been better fitted than men to exercise economy and tact.

To conduct the administration of city government is a small thing compared with the labor of successfully keeping a husband on the right track and bringing up a family.

Great Passages from the Bible

The Happy Man

(Proverbs 3; 13-24)

HAPPY is the man that findeth wisdom, and the man that getteth understanding.

For the merchandise of it is better than the merchandise of silver, and the gain thereof than fine gold.

She is more precious than rubies: and all the things thou canst desire are not to be compared unto her.

Length of days is in her right hand; and in her left hand riches and honour.

Her ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace.

She is a tree of life to them that lay hold upon her: and happy is every one that retaineth her.

The Lord by wisdom hath founded the earth; by understanding hath He established the heavens.

By His knowledge the depths are broken up, and the clouds drop down the dew.

My son, let not them depart from thine eyes: keep sound wisdom and discretion:

So shall they be life unto thy soul, and grace to thy neck.

Then shalt thou walk in thy way safely, and thy foot shall not stumble.

When thou liest down, thou shalt not be afraid: yea, thou shalt lie down, and thy sleep shall be sweet.

Tales that are Told

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

SPEAKING of institutions, there's an old one I've never told. There was a new patient in an insane asylum. He was one that got himself declared insane by the jury so he could get out of the murder charge, and was waiting for the doctors to come around and say he wasn't crazy so he could go out and kill another one.

This new patient had everything fixed up with the superintendent, so he was sitting on the lawn under a tree, drinking cold drinks while somebody was fanning him.

There was an assistant superintendent that had got his job not long before, and he didn't understand all the workings of the place yet. He come around to the new patient and says:

"You are a new patient?"

"Yep."

"Why aren't you at work?"

"I'm crazy."

"Yes, but the rules here are that all patients must work. Don't you see that all the others are working?"

"Oh, yah, but I ain't THAT crazy, mister!"

Her Trial Trip

WITH the squeaking of brakes the bus pulled into the pavement and a lady boarded it. Seeing the conductor already had his hand on the bell-cord, she asked him not to start until she had climbed the stairs.

"Are you all right, ma'am?" he inquired at length.

"No," was the reply. "Wait a minute. I'm coming down again."

Impatiently the conductor waited; even the passengers were getting anxious.

The lady descended and stepped back to the pavement.

"I'm not going today," she beamed kindly. "But if it's fine tomorrow I'll probably go for a blow, and I thought I'd better see if I could get up the stairs."

Beyond a Joke

A HARD-UP man became engaged to the daughter of a well-known but very mean comedian, and used to dine at his future father-in-law's every Sunday. Incidentally, he always ate heartily.

One Sunday there were choice grapes for dessert, and the hard-up one ate about a pound of them.

"Fond of grapes, aren't you?" asked his prospective father-in-law.

"Yes, thank you," was the reply, "I am fond of grapes!"

"I wish to goodness I could think of something you weren't fond of. We'd have that for dinner."

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 28.—Along Broadway they are known as "take joints." They are fly-by-night cafes whose prosperity depends entirely upon the sap. They take him as Grant took Richmond, and if he squawks out he skids on his ear.

The especially desired location is a place from which some reputable cafe or night club has moved. The gyp parlor entrepreneur keeps its exterior the same and sometimes will, save for the change of a single letter, have the same name.

Many, whose proprietors have gone out of business or moved, now flourish. The enterprise is not built on the idea of return patronage. A customer rarely goes back unless he is a glutton for punishment. They are the sort inspiring Bugs Baer's crack: "Waiter, bring my check and a fright wig."

Some lodge next door to first class haunts and so simulate their neighbor's outside decorations that many enter unsuspectingly and are not conscious of their mistake until the garcon hands them the awful news. Aside from overcharge, the addition is done with a split leadpencil.

In most of them are a brace of beetle browed bullies who act as bouncers and intimidate those who meekly inquire about the accuracy of a $2 charge for a razor-thin sandwich. As a general thing people submit to the robbery rather than face a row.

Such frenetic joints, too, are the rendezvous for hardboiled ladies of the night who carry suspicious vials in hand-bags and have convenient apartments in the neighborhood. Nor is the ancient badger game an entirely lost gesture in the Tenderloin "take joints."

It has been estimated there are more than 200 sucker saloons of this sort between the Circle and Herald Square. They are hep to New York's responsive appeal to a "front," and their carriage starters and outside trappings are as elegant as the town affords.

* * *

The largest living room in America is in the de luxe apartment house on the site of the old Clark mansion on upper Fifth avenue. It is big enough to house an ordinary suburban dwelling. The new building is reputed the last word in luxurious living, and has 14 apartments which have been sold to tenants at prices ranging from $130,000 to $325,000.

* * *

The romance of New York's real estate is one of the thrilling aspects of a city constantly tearing down and building up. The immigrants who have become multi-millionaires in real estate manipulations during the past few years number more than a dozen. The most successful was a newsboy who now owns almost the entire block upon which he once sold papers.

* * *

On the Times Building is a tablet testifying to the vision of a well-known New Yorker. It bears the name of Charles Thorley, the late Fifth avenue florist. Mr. Thorley saw the possibility of the triangular square upon which the Times Building now stands. It was then occupied by a beer shack. Mr. Thorley sought the owner and asked the price. The owner being rich decided to demand a price that would frighten him off. He asked $8,000 a year. Mr. Thorley promptly leased it for 105 years. And as a result, his estate now receives a yearly profit of $19,500.

It is annoying to hear people sniff, "He is just a real estate man." It is real estate men who have done much to make this city the towering affair it is. And whether you care for it or not, you must admit it is quite a village.

Every man, according to a New York evangelist, who has reached 40 has been guilty of some sort of theft. Not always. Unless he counts hotel towels.

Employing the Deaf

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

What people want, most of all, that is, the self-respecting kind of people, is not charity but employment.

A man who can work at all wants to do his bit.

The most commendable trait in a human being is a desire to stand on his own feet and get himself off other peoples' backs. When you give a man a job, therefore, you give a boost to his personality. You help him respect himself.

When you give a man charity it depresses his personality and encourages that spirit in him which makes him a pauper.

We are all sorry for deaf people and none of us would object to giving them a quarter now and then to help them along. But this is the cheapest thing we can do. It is mere sop to sentiment. It is giving a little of our surplus money to relieve ourselves of the responsibility of giving our time and interest and effort.

The American Federation of Organizations for the Hard of Hearing with headquarters at Washington, D. C., is seeking to help the deaf by finding them jobs. The New York League for the Hard of Hearing has done a great deal for the unemployed deaf.

These organizations are investigating constantly occupations in which the deafened can make good, giving advice as to chance of occupations or as to training for available occupations.

For instance, it suggested to a deafened fur salesman that he give up the salesmanship of fur for fur cutting, and he is making a success in that line, whereas he was failing in the former line.

A New York store employed hard of hearing cash girls with success because the crash of noise of the carriers does not distract them.

There are many occupations which a deaf person can pursue, although he is handicapped in many.

The public should realize that the best way to help deaf people, as well as other crippled or impaired people, is to give them employment, and the employers of the country would do a great deal more good giving work to people than they could do in giving them charity or dispensing largess in any way.

It is not urged that people should let their sympathy interfere with their business, but wherever their business can be carried on just as well by those who need it the job should be given them.

The deaf of the country appeal to you not for occasional charity, but for a chance to work and support themselves.

Old Age Tragedy

THERE is pathos aplenty in the present status of industrial old age and a little whirlwind blowing there which has the possibilities of a future typhoon.

Industrial firms, out of the humanity of their hearts, adopt old age pensions for their employes, conditioning it upon 20 years of service.

Hence, if an applicant has not 20 prospective years of toil he gets no job. Result, old age unemployment.

Preachers have been terribly hit by the young man craze. Experience and eloquence and judgment count for nothing if he has passed the fortieth milestone.

Industry, particularly, is shutting out its best ability and running a closed shop to its best experience.

In 1898 a man was sent to the San Quentin prison. In 1919 he was granted a parole conditioned upon finding employment outside of the prison.

But he was 79 and no man would hire him. The last I heard, he had been shuffling about the prison for seven years with his parole in his pocket. Undoubtedly he died in his cell.

In the Bowery the other day I talked with a down-and-out. He said he was 70 and no man would hire him. No, he wasn't asking me for a handout.

All our hypocritical moralizing about the unemployed being entirely to blame because they didn't save and count on deluge days is only to make a show of crass ignorance in regard to economic conditions.

There seems to be no other logic to the proposition than that the nation or state shall underwrite old age. That we shall utilize every tap of toil a man can perform, irrespective of his years.

A nation that does not grant security to its citizens at the extremities of life, babyhood and feebleness, should be blacklisted by civilization.

Art Is Morality

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE is talking straight Ruskin. "We need," he says, "to put more effort into translating art into the lives of the people. If we could surround ourselves with forms of beauty, the evil things of life would tend to disappear."

So Ruskin preached, and thundered, and scolded, for 40 years. English business men of the '60s suggested to Ruskin's father that the young man should be put into an asylum. Partly because of Ruskin's thundering, nobody is likely to make any similar suggestion about the President.

The heresies of yesterday become the commonplaces of today. But when you try to translate a commonplace into action, you discover that a lot of people still think it heresy—or folly.
